WHO ARE WE?

Aile Publishing is a publishing house founded by author Hatice Kübra Tongar and publisher İsmail Tongar. Ömer Faruk Paksu serves as our publishing advisor, Ayşe Çetintaş, Hatice Kübra Özdemir and Emel Nermin Temel serve as our editors, and Abdullah Fuad Kılınçlı serves as our visual director. Of course, dozens of our esteemed illustrators and authors share in our excitement for creating content through their works.

WHY DO WE EXIST?

Because we care very much about the institution of family. We have been working to contribute to this institution for years. We accumulate words to say and projects that we deem necessary.

Our age is full of arguments to discredit the family institution and to consume its power, and unfortunately, the family institution is negatively affected by this situation.

We see a picture in which the age of marriage has risen above thirty, single-parent homes are rapidly increasing, existing families are struggling in the vortex of virtual communication, people who cannot speak, communicate, fill the day in the same room but in different worlds are increasing.

We endeavour to change this picture in a positive way by working day and night. We love to lose sleep for children, for young people, for parents, to make a positive contribution to the future of the world.

WHAT ARE WE DOING?

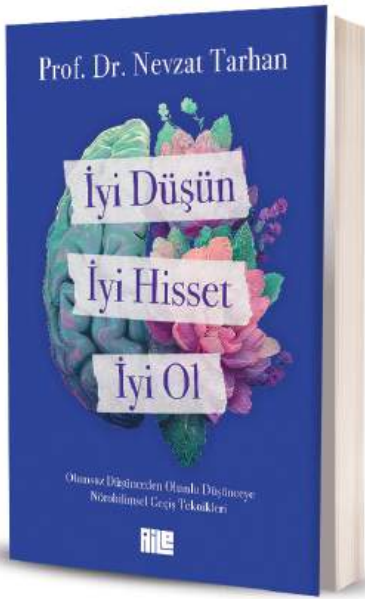

We produce content that has a message and mission for every age group, not from 7 to 77, but from 0 to 99, that reinforces the institution of family and strengthens the bond between generations.

From baby books to youth novels, from manga to children's literature, from educational books to psychology books, from games that increase quality time with the family to ageless books, we work day and night to prepare publications on every subject related to "Family".

Aile Publishing will bring a breath of fresh air to print and digital publishing. We will say that we are here to protect the institution of "Family" with our printed publications and digital publications and contents.

Let's say this much: Get ready to see the phrase "the first in Turkey" in this publishing house.

THINK GOOD, FEEL GOOD, BE GOOD

Neuroscientific Techniques for Shifting from Negative to Positive Thinking

This book teaches not just thinking, but “thinking correctly”!

“I can’t do it anyway!”

“Nothing I do works.”

“Bad things always find me!”

These sentences may seem like simple thoughts, whereas our brain records thoughts as if they were real and starts living them. Those who think they will fail, fail. Those who believe that bad things always find them constantly experience negative situations.

This book carries us from negative thinking to positive thinking! As our thoughts change, our lives change too!

Prof. Dr. Nevzat Tarhan, who introduced “Positive Psychology” to Turkey, explains the scientific ways to transform this malicious inner voice. Changing a thought can change a life. Why shouldn’t that changed life be yours?

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It offers a perspective that strengthens mental order by clarifying the thought-emotion relationship.
- It makes us realize thought patterns that affect brain chemistry and offers neuroscience-based suggestions.
- It shows how cognitive tools work that help reframe thought by introducing negative schemas.
- It suggests applicable and practical steps that make positive thinking sustainable in daily life.
- It creates a strong awareness by explaining with scientific facts that a single thought can change life.

RAISING CHILDREN AT PEACE WITH THEIR OWN GENDER

Girls Like Girls, Boys Like Boys

We need to acknowledge that today's "de-gendering" policies are a very dangerous project. This project has one main aim: To destroy the family structure! Why is the family structure targeted? Because without the family there is no generation. Without generation, humanity will disappear. The last card, the last trump card, the last great project of the global powers for the destruction of humanity is now in the lap of all families; it is deployed like a bomb waiting to explode. What happens if the bomb explodes? All humanity will be buried underneath!

Prof. Dr. Nevzat Tarhan stands firmly against the current of de-gendering that is being sprayed on our children! He offers open-hearted answers to dozens of parental questions such as 'How do I make my child love his/her gender?', 'How do I support the period of gender development?', 'What should I do if he/she has behaviours incompatible with his/her gender?'.

So that girls grow up like 'girls' and boys like 'boys'...

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It deals with the child's gender development on neurobiological and psychosocial grounds.
- It explains the ways in which boys and girls can be raised as individuals who are at peace with their own gender from a scientific and cultural perspective.
- While discussing the harm caused to society by gender-neutralization projects, it reveals how families can protect themselves from these traps.

CHILDREN WHO DON'T YELL

A Guide to Raising Peaceful and Compassionate Kids

Hello, Mommy!

It's me, your baby!

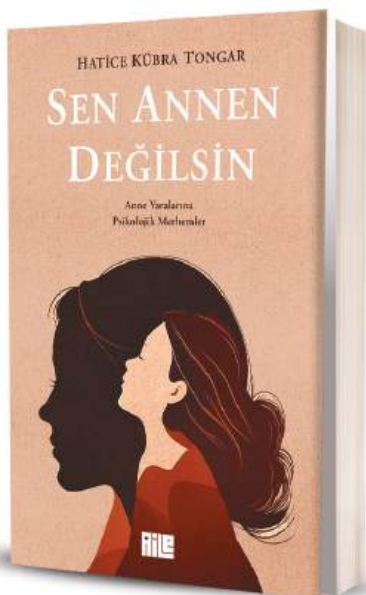

Don't say, "I already know who you are," because I don't think we've truly met yet. I don't think you've made enough effort to really get to know me. If you had, you would notice that when I cry, act stubborn, feel scared, or react with anger, I am trying to tell you something. You would focus not on my actions but on the reasons behind them. You wouldn't think, "He's/She's doing this to upset me" or "He's/She's doing this just to annoy me." Instead, you would feel that behind every behavior of mine lies an innocent need.

So, here I am leaving this book in your hands so that we can finally meet. I know that as you get to know me, you will love me even more, support my growth, take my hand, and walk alongside me on the path of life. And no matter what you do or don't do, I love you so much.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It shows parents how to respond during moments of crisis with their children, providing a healthy and sustainable communication model.
- It explains the importance of setting boundaries for children with love and collaboration.
- It highlights the significance of emotional bonding between parents and children and meeting their psychological needs.

YOU'RE NOT YOUR MOTHER

Psychological Ointments for Mother Wounds

An invitation to introspection from the author of 'Mothers Who Don't Shout'!

"I don't have very good memories of my mother! I wish I had a caring and loving mother... I can't remember the last time I hugged my mother. I won't be a mother like my mother! I would love to mend my relationship with my mother..."

If these sentences make sense to you, get ready! We are going on a journey to repair our mother wounds and give birth to our own motherhood today!

Expert Psychologist Hatice Kübra Tongar, whose books have embraced millions of readers with love, promises a mother's kiss to the places of our hearts and whispers in our ears in this book: No matter what you went through as a child... No matter how many wounds you have and how much it hurts... You are not doomed to carry all these wounds and pains like a broken brooch stuck in the centre of your heart and pass them on to your child like a legacy.

You can heal and change. Because remember that you are not your mother!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It enables you to see the wounds of your childhood and apply ointment on them.
- It will help you to open a new and clean page in your relationship with your mother.
- It helps you to strip away your mother's weaknesses and discover the strength of your own motherhood.
- Expert Psychologist Hatice Kübra Tongar's gentle style promises a tender mother's kiss to the places in your heart that have been broken.

RAISING CHILDREN WHO LIVE IN HARMONY

Ways to Deal with Sibling Jealousy for Kids and Parents

“Why does sibling jealousy happen?”

“How can siblings live together in harmony?”

“What methods can make parenting easier?”

This book takes us on a journey through both our own childhood stories and the sibling relationships of our children being written today. It helps us understand and accept not only our own reasons but also those of our children. Each chapter provides key points, methods, and techniques for managing and minimizing “sibling jealousy.”

Written by Hatice Kübra Tongar, the author of the bestselling “Fitrah Pedagogy” and “Mothers Who Don't Yell”, this book reflects the experiences and challenges of raising three children and reveals the secrets of maintaining balance among siblings through practical and pedagogical approaches.

We invite all mothers who want their homes to be filled with ‘chirps’ instead of ‘shouts’ of their children to this pleasant journey.

Because sibling jealousy is a ‘manageable’ process.

We just need to know how to manage it...

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It approaches sibling jealousy as a natural emotion and offers practical methods, games, and effective communication techniques to resolve jealousy crises.
- It provides neuroscience-based and pedagogical insights on sibling jealousy and child development, explaining theoretical concepts in a clear and simple way.
- It demonstrates how to balance relationships between siblings and transform jealousy into love, helping create a more peaceful and happy atmosphere at home.
- It helps you recognize your own childhood wounds and make peace with your past, enabling you to adopt a healthier parenting approach.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION THROUGH LOVE, NOT FEAR

If we look forward to our favorite TV shows more than the prayer times..

If we know that the Prophet (PBUH) never even frowned at a child, yet we beat or curse our own...

If fasting makes us aggressive, angry, and intolerant, and we start every sentence with "I'm already fasting, don't mess with me..."

If we scold our child for passing in front of us during prayer ignoring the example of the Prophet (PBUH), who extended his prostration just so he wouldn't interrupt a child's game...

If we preach the justice of Caliph Omar (RA) but fail to be fair between two siblings...

If we speak of Caliph Osman's (RA) modesty but invite immorality into our homes through the television...

If we praise Caliph Ali's (RA) wisdom but can't remember the last time we read a book...

If we complete one Qur'an recitation after another but make no effort to understand or live by it...

If we chase children out of mosques, using their childish play as an excuse...

Then we are doing something wrong.

In this book, Hatice Kübra Tongar explains step-by-step how to provide religious education to our children without force -through love, understanding, and play- using methods appropriate for their age and psychology.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It reveals how the love of Allah can be conveyed through trust, compassion, and mercy -rather than fear- building a healthy and lasting spiritual foundation for children.
- It highlights, with scientific and pedagogical insight, why love-centered guidance is more effective than reward and punishment approaches in religious education.
- It offers practical, age-appropriate methods that respect children's emotional development and support their inner world.
- It shares relatable, real-life examples that show how daily practices such as prayer and fasting can be introduced in a way children can genuinely embrace.
- It encourages parents to reflect on their own understanding of faith and recognize how it shapes their children's attitudes and behaviors.

THE PEDAGOGY OF FITRAH – 1

Child Education Based on the Divine Verses Rather Than Cultural Customs

"Let Allah raise your child!"

Are you as curious about your child's fitrah -their spiritual DNA- as you are about their biological DNA, such as whom their eyes or nose will resemble? Do you know which of the countless fitrah programs -active or calm, bold or shy- has been entrusted to your child?

Many parents begin their parenting journey believing their child is a formless dough to be kneaded. They see themselves as the artist and the child as the clay to be molded. Yet every child is born already carrying their own divine shape their own fitrah. The true role of a parent is not to reshape, but to protect this sacred program and create the space where their child's authentic nature can unfold.

This book offers essential guidance on topics such as modesty training, delaying gratification, nutrition, and anger management approaching each not through cultural customs, but through the timeless wisdom of the ayat (verses of the Qur'an).

The Pedagogy of Fitrah calls upon every mother to step away from the anxious urge to write on the blank pages of her child's life and instead, to read, verse by verse, the lines already written by the Almighty.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It reminds that parenting should be nourished not by traditional customs, but by the divine methods presented in the Qur'an.
- It helps parents recognize common misconceptions in traditional child-rearing practices and fills the gaps left by modern pedagogy.
- It explains, through both scientific and spiritual foundations, that children raised in harmony with their fitrah grow into more peaceful, joyful, and resilient individuals.
- It offers scientifically grounded recommendations for every stage of child development—guided by the light of the Qur'an and the Sunnah.
- It offers a love-based educational approach by encouraging parents to avoid punishment, fear, and threats that harm the child's soul.

THE PEDAGOGY OF FITRAH – 2

The Prophets' Methods of Child Education

A first in Turkey!

From Prophet Adam to Prophet Muhammad (PBUH), this book explores the child-rearing methods of the prophets mentioned in the Qur'an.

Until now, we have often read their lives as stories of the past focusing on miracles and attributing superhuman qualities to them. Yet each of them was chosen as a role model for us: as spouses, parents, friends, and siblings...

Written as a guide for parents, this book examines the prophets' approaches to child education through the lens of pedagogical science.

In the second book of the Fitrah Pedagogy Series, Hatice Kübra Tongar answers the questions on every parent's mind:

- Where and how does child education begin?
- What are the ways to raise self-confident children?
- How does a child feel truly loved?
- How should respect education be given according to gender?
- How should the roles of mothers and fathers be balanced in child upbringing?

All this -and much more- can be found within these pages.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It evaluates modern pedagogy in the light of revelation, offering solutions aligned with fitrah (natural disposition).
- It brings the prophets' child-rearing methods into the present, providing families with reliable guidance.
- It answers contemporary parenting questions through the exemplary lives of the prophets.
- It explains how children's sense of security can be strengthened through prophetic attitudes.
- It illustrates the power of patience, love, and trust through examples from the lives of the prophets.

MY HEALING MARRIAGE

Restorative Prescriptions for Past, Present and Future

“Marriage depends on two things: finding the right person and becoming the right person.” (Rumi)

If we have only one precious lifetime, and one marriage we hope will last a lifetime...

Are you ready to set out together on a journey to heal the wounds of your marriage and make every moment more meaningful?

This book guides us how to become the right person within a marriage.

How do the marriages we witnessed in childhood shape our own relationships?

What did we learn about being spouses from our parents?

Do we know how to argue constructively, communicate effectively, and spend quality time together?

After becoming parents, did we forget how to remain partners?

How can we live with a spouse who is anxious, depressed, narcissistic, angry, distant, jealous, suspicious, unfaithful, or withdrawn?

Are we giving enough care and attention to our intimate life?

Then come, let us set our intention together and begin healing our marriage.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It encourages shared responsibility with the mindset “If I change, we change,” initiating profound transformation through small steps.
- It reveals how childhood patterns are carried into marriage, helping couples reinterpret their relationship and act more consciously.
- It explains the power of calming down together, making it easier to soothe emotional storms as a team.
- It aims to turn spouses into emotional “safe havens,” showing how to build security and intimacy through daily rituals.
- It strengthens emotional safety in marriage, easing fears of criticism and abandonment while fostering lasting trust.

MY HEALING CHILDHOOD, MY HEALING MOTHERHOOD

"I don't want to yell at my child, but I just can't stop myself."

"I get angry over the smallest things, then feel guilty for days."

"As a young girl I cried, saying 'I never want to be like my mother.' Now I realize I've become exactly like her."

"When my child cries, I feel intense anger."

"There's an anger inside me whose source I can't even explain."

"No matter what I do, I always feel inadequate as a mother."

Are you ready to uncover the roots of these sentences that quietly poison our lives?

Then gather yourself we are going back to childhood.

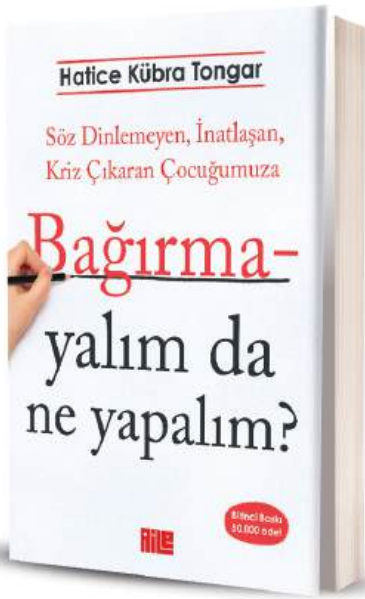

Why are we so angry? Why do we feel inadequate? Why do our children's smallest misbehaviors trigger overwhelming reactions? Where does this persistent sense of emptiness come from?

Hatice Kübra Tongar, author of "Mothers Who Don't Yell" and an expert family counselor, invites us all to give birth to our inner child in the present moment.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It helps mothers recognize how recurring struggles in motherhood are connected not only to behavior, but to their own personal histories.
- It makes visible how unresolved childhood wounds quietly shape reactions to children in everyday life.
- It reframes maternal exhaustion not as personal failure, but as an intergenerational burden explored with both causes and solutions.
- It places motherhood in a humane and sustainable space without reproducing the myth of the "ideal mother."
- It centers responsibility and conscious presence over the pursuit of perfection that leads to self-erasure.

Defiant, Stubborn, and Prone to Meltdowns IF WE DON'T YELL, WHAT SHOULD WE DO?

From Hatice Kübra Tongar, author of "Mothers Who Don't Yell", comes a brand- new guide that touches both your child's emotions and behavior.

Do you yell when your child resists, insists, or throws a tantrum and then feel guilty afterward?

Are you stuck between setting rules and staying emotionally connected?

Do you avoid saying "no," only to explode in frustration later?

If your answer is "yes," this book is for you.

Why do we yell?

Why do children test boundaries?

Why is staying calm so hard?

How do we set firm yet compassionate limits?

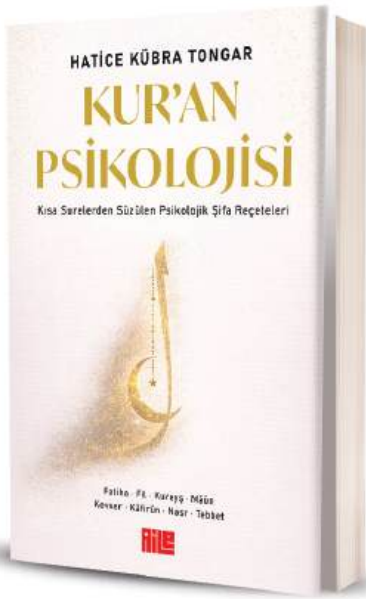

And if the bond is damaged how do we repair it?

Grounded in neuropsychology, emotional education, and behavioral science, this book offers case studies, practical tools, and actionable strategies to help parents set boundaries without shouting.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It shows through science and real examples that it's possible to raise children without shouting.
- It reduces parental guilt and nurtures a compassionate inner voice.
- It helps parents understand and manage emotional triggers behind anger.
- It teaches how to read children's reactions more healthily using neuroscience and behavioral science.
- It demonstrates that connection -not yelling- is the foundation of discipline.
- It provides powerful tools to repair and rebuild parent-child relationships.

QUR'AN PSYCHOLOGY

Psychological Healing Prescriptions Drawn from the Short Surahs of the Qur'an

*"Indeed, the Qur'an is a healing for those who believe."
(Fussilat, 44)*

Hatice Kübra Tongar, who has touched the lives of hundreds of thousands of mothers with her book Fitrah Pedagogyc approaches the pages of the Holy Qur'an this time through the lens of a psychologist.

Concepts such as secure attachment, psychological resilience, self-worth construction, emotional regulation, mindfulness, and many other contemporary psychological frameworks gain profound new meaning through the Qur'an's step-by-step roadmap for developing the human psyche.

This book explores the short surahs of the Qur'an as psychological healing prescriptions, each one gathering the scattered fragments of the soul and restoring inner coherence.

It offers readers an inner map of balance: soothing anxiety, containing anger, repairing feelings of worthlessness, and guiding the human being back to moral and emotional alignment.

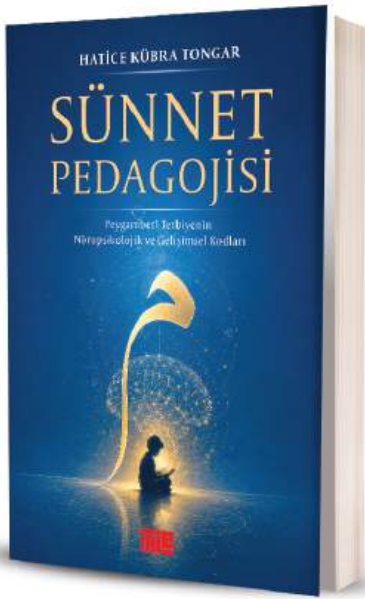

Recommendations that nurture mental well-being are distilled, drop by drop, from the verses of the short surahs.

"The Holy Qur'an is not a psychology book. Yet every verse contains deep psychological meanings that offer healing prescriptions for the human soul. For the Qur'an is the word of the Creator, who fashioned the human being layer by layer, knowing and describing every spiritual pathway from the very beginning."

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It transforms the Qur'an from a text that is merely read into a guide that is lived, one that directly touches the inner world of the human being.
- It reveals how the short surahs recited daily in prayer speak directly to modern anxieties, vulnerabilities, and the search for meaning.
- It approaches verses not as historical narratives, but as an inner roadmap that regulates, balances, and repairs human psychology.
- It invites reflection on gratitude, trust, boundaries, surrender, self-worth, arrogance, and spiritual blindness through the Qur'an's language, interpreted with contemporary concepts.
- It demonstrates that many ideas discussed in modern psychology are rooted in a profound knowledge of human nature already present in the Qur'an.

PROPHETIC PEDAGOGY

The Neuropsychological and Developmental Codes of Prophetic Upbringing

Fourteen centuries ago, there lived a Prophet (PBUH) who used to call children by affectionate nicknames.

He (PBUH) was a leader who visited a little boy upon hearing that his pet sparrow had died, who paused his sermon, stepped down from the pulpit, and embraced his grandchildren when they stumbled; who listened intently to a crying baby in the back rows while leading prayer; and who raised children by giving them responsibilities without ever shouting, punishing, or belittling them. Instead, He (PBUH) treated every child as an independent individual.

He (PBUH) was a compassionate guide who echoed through the ages: "Whoever has a child, let him be a child with them."

In this groundbreaking book, Hatice Kübra Tongar walks through the streets of the Age of Bliss, looking at these timeless prophetic attitudes through the lens of modern neuroscience. Under the title Prophetic Pedagogy, she reinterprets the Prophet's (PBUH) relationships with children in the light of contemporary neuroscience and developmental psychology.

Because while eras change, the essence of human nature remains the same.

Parents! Educators, teachers, and every adult who has a child in their world and who are still children at heart!

Put down your phones. Look straight into your children's eyes. And remember the name of that little sparrow! Because that is exactly what the Prophet (PBUH) used to do.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It unpacks the profound pedagogical and psychological wisdom underlying the Prophet Muhammad's (PBUH) interactions with children.
- It evaluates prophetic child-rearing practices alongside cutting-edge findings from modern neuroscience and developmental psychology.
- It offers a fresh prophetic perspective on contemporary challenges faced by children, such as attention deficits, screen exposure, loneliness, and lack of deep human connection.
- It presents the Prophet's (PBUH) approach to parenting not merely as a historical archive, but as a living, breathing model to guide modern family life.
- It equips adults with the ability to look past a child's surface behavior and focus instead on the underlying emotional or psychological need.

THE SHADOW IS NOT ENOUGH

Being a Present Father in the Digital Age

Fathers are at home, but they aren't really there!

Never before in history did fathers face a screen addiction crisis. In the past, fathers might have been emotionally distant, perhaps strict, or men of few words but when they came home, they were truly present.

Today's father, however, is at home but absent; on the couch but miles away; right next to his child but emotionally unreachable. His eyes seem fixed on his child, but his mind is drifting through lives on a screen.

This book was written to show that the traditional saying, "A father's shadow is enough," no longer holds true. Children need "real, present" fathers to grow up healthy. Fatherhood is not merely about bringing home a pay check and scrolling through a screen all evening.

Because let's be honest: No father's Shadow Is Enough. It takes a hand, a voice, effort, love, an embrace, and a living, breathing presence.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It prompts readers to rethink what a child genuinely expects from, longs for, and needs in a father.
- It demonstrates how one's own childhood years heavily influence their parenting attitudes in adulthood.
- It helps men understand how the relationship they had with their own fathers mirrors the bond they build with their children today.
- It reminds fathers that while confronting emotional baggage carried from the past is difficult, forging a brand-new path is entirely possible.
- It illustrates that building a genuine connection with a child carries a far greater meaning than simply raising them.
- It reassures parents that children are not looking for flawless perfection; they are searching for a safe, secure, and accessible presence.

BALANCE OF LUST AND AFFECTION IN MARRIAGE

“Don’t parent your spouse!”

Expert Psychologist Fatih Reşit Civelekoğlu warns husbands and wives: “Do not parent each other, be a companion!”

One of the most important requirements of marriage is a healthy sexual life. However, many couples cannot achieve a healthy harmony in their sexual life. In a husband-wife relationship where lust is forgotten, this important orientation is replaced by an unbalanced relationship of affection in which the spouses are almost like parents to each other. Such a relationship turns into “domesticity”, not “marriage”.

How should husband-wife harmony be?

How to increase lust between spouses?

How to solve sexual problems?

What is the right affection in a marital relationship?

How should romance and eroticism be experienced?

All the information that will turn all domestic relationships into a real marriage is in this book!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It explains the factors that threaten marriage.
- It shows ways to bring novelty and excitement into your marriage.
- It helps you rekindle eroticism and romance in your relationship.
- It discusses how to create a balance between passion and compassion, free from societal prejudices.

NOT A PROBLEM YOUTH, A RESPONSIBLE YOUTH

“Adolescence is the age when responsibilities begin, not problems.”

Are today's young people truly a “problem generation,” or have they simply never been taught responsibility?

Today, the word we use most often when talking about young people is “problem.” But what if the things we perceive as problems are actually misunderstood developmental processes?

In this book, Dr. Ferhat Aslan turns the blame-filled language directed at youth on its head! He reveals how labels, expectations, and misguided parenting attitudes shape a young person's identity.

He explains how the adolescent brain works, why young people can't always act on what they know, why responsibility doesn't develop quickly, and most importantly, how all of this can be built using scientific foundations and real-life examples.

Rather than correcting young people, not a Problem Youth, a Responsible Youth invites adults to understand them; rather than controlling them, to build meaningful relationships; rather than blaming them, to cultivate responsibility.

It offers a powerful message to parents of Generation Z: “Young people often become what the important adults in their lives believe they can become.”

The choice is ours: Do we see the young person at home as a problem or as a future responsible adult?

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It challenges the common tendency to label youth as “problematic” and encourages readers to look beyond behavior to underlying needs.
- It reframes adolescence not as a crisis but as a critical period of identity formation and personal growth.
- It explains the neurological and emotional foundations behind the familiar complaint: “They know what to do, but they don't do it.”
- It demonstrates how parental language, expectations, and repeated messages contribute to shaping a young person's identity.
- It presents responsibility not as a burden, but as an inner skill that develops alongside freedom and autonomy.

In the Mirror of Jalal and Jamal MASCULINE FEMININE WISDOM

When the names Jalal begin to be manifested in women and Jamal in men, wars break out, generations deteriorate, consumption increases, love and compassion are forgotten. The disruption of the balance of Jalal and Jamal is the catastrophe and the end of the earth.

Won't you take the responsibility of preserving the gender given to you to maintain the balance in the universe?

When you find your masculine-feminine balance, you will find your equal who will make you happy.

When a man completes his woman and a woman completes her man, the reward is eternal happiness on earth and in heaven. Your masculine feminine balance is the most valuable legacy you can leave to your children.

Now, in order to take your place in the completed big picture of the puzzle, whatever negative beliefs, worries, fears you have about being a woman or a man, whatever information you have learnt wrongly, let it all go softly!

When you fill your piece of the puzzle, you will be helping your children and all your loved ones to reach their life goals and fill the places reserved for them in the universe.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It explains the wisdom of being born male or female, in response to the current trend of de- gendering.
- It helps both women and men better understand themselves, discover their talents, and recognize their uniqueness.
- It invites readers to explore the dynamics, power balance, and communication styles between women and men.

CHARACTER EDUCATION IN THE WOMB

“Human is a story written in the womb.”

I am a fetus... With the dance of the moon and the sun, I fell into the fertile soil of the womb.

There, I began listening to the song of life. There, I had my very first experiences.

I felt my existence in proportion to the beauty of the sounds I heard. I weakened as those sounds grew harsh. I made my first decisions about life in the womb. I entered my first agreements there.

As my mother and father composed the melody of their own lives with authenticity, I began composing the song of my own.

When my mother was happy, I could be happy.

When my father supported my mother, I could feel safe.

I came to know the world through my mother's eyes.

And only to the extent that I was loved, could I draw closer to my Creator. I did not need perfection. I needed love.

In the most fragile stage of my existence, I feel real to the extent that I am loved, protected, and cared for. I can only accept the values you wish to pass on to me if I trust you and feel safe with you. The greatest gift you can offer me is love, a virtue in itself.

Respecting my individuality, my timing, loving me not as an extension of yourself but for who I am, and recognizing me as a unique being entrusted to you.

The more you heal your own inner world, the stronger I become. The more you come to know and understand yourselves, the more I am educated.

To give me love is to place the keys of both worlds in my hands. And the reward of this love is dignity in this world and the next. I am the story you write in the womb. I grow more beautiful in proportion to the love you add to my story.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It demonstrates that character development begins before birth, integrating scientific findings with spiritual insight.
- It highlights the importance of emotional and spiritual preparation, encouraging conscious and mindful motherhood.
- It reframes pregnancy as a meaningful period of trust, devotion, and intentional growth.
- It clearly explains how emotional well-being and ethical nourishment influence the unborn child.

DIARY OF A FETUS

"Welcome, my dear...

I know you did not expect this ending.

It came as a surprise.

You grew up fearing death.

And now what you feared has arrived.

You are restless;

I am waiting in peace.

What you never expected, I always did.

I knew from the beginning that you would not belong here.

In a moment, you will cry because you think you are dying.

While you cry, I will smile.

Then I will tell you the moment you believe is death today will remain with you forever.

Today is your birthday.

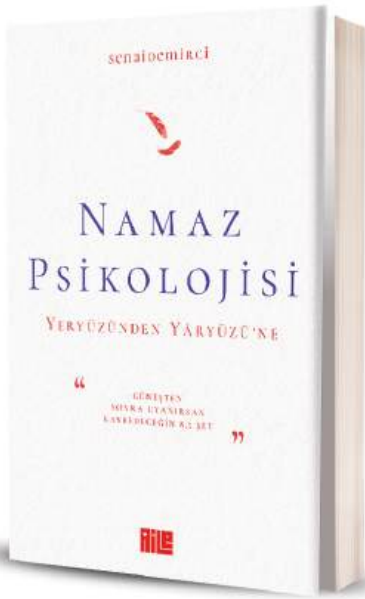

Even if I explained it, you would not yet understand."

In the Diary of a Fetus, Dr. Senai Demirci unites his medical expertise with literary depth to reflect humanity's most intimate story through a poetic and psychological lens, the book invites readers to view life, death, and creation anew echoing Mevlana's wisdom that sees death as a return, a birth into eternity.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It shares the intimate story of being human through a poetic and emotionally resonant narrative.
- It allows readers to witness the miracle of creation from the unique perspective of a fetus.
- It seamlessly blends medicine and literature, science and spirituality.
- It offers different perspectives on life, existence, and the meaning of creation.
- It gently reminds readers of life's transience while planting a deep sense of hope for eternity.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF PERFORMING SALAH

Dr. Senai Demirci, with his identity as a psychotherapist, listens to the gurgling water sound of the existential flow hidden by the known form of performing salah. He dresses the accumulation of humanity's contemplation from Jung to Mevlana, from Ibn Arabi to Saint Exupery on the body of prayer. He explores the meditation deepening encoded in the movements and words of salah. He puts the feeling of gratitude and the enthusiasm of astonishment known as 'sema' in Sufism into the palms of 'salah'.

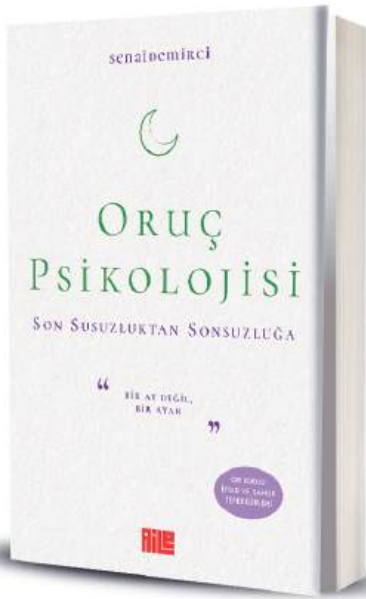

He reminds us that performing salah calls us to be more human, not more religious.

"You puff up the chest of existence. You place your head on the bosom of the universe and hear the vibrant beating of the celestial heart. You carry the transformations that give birth to stars and the revolutions that overthrow galaxies to the pulse of your life. You tear off the shirt of mediocrity with the enthusiasm of breathing fresh every moment. You get rid of your habitual self that objectifies you. You raise your self-worth. You are renewed. You take your face from the earth and come close to Allah, as if touching or embracing Him..."

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It explains that performing salah is not only a ritual of worship, but also a journey that purifies the soul and brings one closer to the Creator.
- It explains that every act of salah from standing to prostration, and every time of salah, carries a profound message about one's life.
- It will help you to transform salah from an ordinary habit into a meaningful experience and make your connection with prayer stronger and more meaningful.
- It shows how salah can function as a spiritual therapy in the midst of the challenges of everyday life.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF FASTING

The Psychology of Fasting is an inner journey where the Qur'anic understanding of the human being meets modern psychology.

In this book, Dr. Senai Demirci reconstructs the sense of self, often lost amid the noise of modern life, through the experience of fasting. He explores, with psychological depth, why silence has become so difficult, why solitude feels increasingly unsettling, and why people tend to avoid encountering their own inner world.

When left alone, the modern individual often struggles to self-regulate, seeking relief in external stimuli. Fasting, at this very point, steps in like a quiet therapist, gently drawing the person away from the crowd. The inner world, suppressed by constant consumption, screens, and continuous interaction, gradually becomes visible through fasting.

Fasting places a meaningful pause between the individual and the world. This pause is not an escape, but an awakening. One learns, through experience, that solitude does not lead to collapse, that one can still remain grounded and whole. The fear of "If I am alone, I will fall apart" gives way to a quiet sense of trust.

This book examines the psychology of disconnection from the self, the transformative power of therapeutic solitude, and how fasting restores the individual and makes renewed self-contact possible.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It reframes iftar in Ramadan not merely as a mealtime, but as the heart of the day portraying waiting not as fatigue, but as an awakening to one's inner self.
- It connects fasting with the Divine Names, reminding readers that true fulfillment lies not at the table but in meaning and awareness.
- It offers moments of reflection amid the rush of daily life, providing a calm remedy to the modern anxiety of "not being able to keep up."
- It demonstrates step by step how hunger and thirst can refresh and activate not only the body, but also the mind and emotions.
- It adopts a compassionate tone, accompanying those who struggle or falter, rather than judging who fasts "better."

THE INTENTION: MY FAST AGAINST GOSSIP

Poster Gift

"I'd say it to their face."

"I don't mean to speak behind their back, but..."

"Am I lying? Everything I'm saying is true!"

"May God guide them they've done it again..."

"If I don't tell someone, I'll burst!"

Gossip often finds its way into our lives behind such seemingly harmless phrases. We justify ourselves and silence our conscience, while our words harm others' dignity and quietly burden our own souls.

I Intend to Fast against Gossip portrays gossip as a moral and spiritual issue one that begins with suspicion, grows through curiosity, and becomes habit. From family gatherings to workplaces, from friendly conversations to social media and messaging apps, the book examines the many hidden forms gossip can take.

"Step into a journey of virtue inspired by Hazrat Maryam's 'fast of silence' a fast with no earthly end, but an everlasting reward in Heaven."

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It encourages deep moral reflection by addressing gossip as a matter of personal responsibility and character.
- It demonstrates how gossip begins with suspicion and develops through prying curiosity, affecting both heart and speech.
- It explains, in clear and accessible language, the harm gossip causes in human relationships, supported by Qur'anic verses, hadiths, and instructive stories.
- It examines the presence of gossip across social, family, and professional settings, highlighting its impact and responsibility.
- It offers a practical 30-day "gossip fast" plan, guiding readers from awareness to action.

FAMILY IN NATURE

Formulas for Being a Natural Family in the Age of Technology

In an age where psychiatric diseases are increasing many times over, obesity due to inactivity has decreased to childhood, divorce rates are rising rapidly, and miscommunication within the family has become evident, it is time to get up from the screen and extend our hands holding the phone to the hands of our family, to look into the eyes of our spouses and children with the attention we watch TV series, to run to the soil and water to find our essence, in short, to be a "Family in Nature"!

The couple Elif-Eyüp Güvere, who have been organising contemplative walks, camps and nature activities for hundreds of families for years, are taking families on a journey through the lines of a book this time, and families are returning to their essence through Family in Nature.

"What does it mean to be in nature? What are the formulas of natural life as a family? How do we get rid of the shopping mall culture? How do we get young people off the screen? What can be done in the forest besides barbecue? What are the practical ways to make holidays and discoveries as a family?" You will find the answers to dozens of questions in this book.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It explains how we can get our family away from screens.
- It encourages families to break free from mall culture and invites them to explore nature.
- It offers natural ways to enhance children's creative skills and sense of discovery.
- It inspires those who want to strengthen family bonds and connect more with nature.

THE CODES OF INTIMATE LIFE

Authored by a medical doctor duo, this guide offers the keys to a fulfilling sex life for singles and married couples alike, enriched by the wisdom of twelve of Turkey's leading experts

This book was prepared after months of meticulous work by a professional and exceptional team dedicated to helping people lead healthy and happy lives. The team includes clinical psychologists, sociologists, sexologists, gynecologists, anatomists, urologists, andrologists, obstetricians, hypnotherapists, lactation consultants, family counselors, behavioral scientists, child development specialists, family physicians, sexual therapists, and holistic medicine practitioners.

We have endeavored to present sexual health information -often untaught, feared, or considered taboo in a scientific, systematic, and understandable manner.

Regarding sexual health, you have two choices: You will either gain a healthy consciousness by reading, researching, listening, and learning from the right sources... Or you will settle for pornography and harm yourself through traumatic masturbation.

If you are married, unhealthy sexual knowledge may condemn you to a restless and unhappy marriage. If you are single, you may spend your youth with depleted energy and diminished motivation for life.

The choice is yours...

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It provides scientifically grounded insights that challenge widespread misconceptions about female and male sexuality.
- It encourages open and respectful conversations about intimacy, guiding couples toward healthy and meaningful communication.
- It clearly explains the causes and solutions of common sexual difficulties encountered in marriage.
- It raises awareness about the risks of pornography and harmful masturbation habits, promoting informed and responsible choices.
- It presents alternative and supportive treatment approaches to sexual concerns in a clear and plain language.

HELPING YOUR CHILD SLEEP IN THEIR OWN BED

A Guide to Helping Your Child Sleep in Their Own Bed

A practical guide to helping your child sleep in their own bed! Every parent asks the same question: "When will my child finally sleep in their own bed?"

Night-long crying, growing fears once the child moves to another room, and endless pleas of "Mom, let me sleep next to you..."

Children's sleep is not just a habit it is a process shaped by security, attachment, and development. The solution is not separation, but understanding, reassurance, and growing together.

The Child Who Sleeps in Their Own Bed explains the neuropsychological and developmental reasons behind children's difficulty sleeping alone and offers science-based, practical, and effective solutions.

Answering 50 essential parenting questions -from bedtime struggles and night awakenings to attachment patterns and individuation- this book serves as a comprehensive guide.

After reading this book you will:

Learn how to support your child during the transition to sleep

Understand and interpret nighttime fears

Discover how sleeping separately supports emotional and psychological development

If you want to nurture your child's emotional world while guiding their body into sleep, this book is for you.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It offers emotion-based, long-lasting solutions for independent sleep.
- It uses a respectful, non-judgmental language honoring individual differences.
- It reframes bedtime as a moment of connection, not conflict.
- It grounds "sleeping in one's own bed" in pedagogical principles.
- It speaks with a compassionate expert voice that supports parents without blame.

Set Boundaries:DON'T VIOLATE YOUR OWN RIGHTS

"How many times have you said 'no' to yourself while saying 'yes' to others?"

Society has always expected us to be compliant, self-sacrificing, and tolerant. But no one asked, "What about your rights?"

"Draw Your Boundaries/Don't Violate Your Own Rights" touches upon the most invisible sin of the modern age. It illuminates the ways to avoid violating your own rights as a human being.

With its psychological depth, spiritual foundations, and powerful stories, this book is for:

- Those who cannot say "No,"
- Those who give constantly and are exhausted,
- Those who feel guilty while defending their own rights,
- Those who think setting boundaries is selfishness,
- Those whose hearts are broken while trying to do good.

It is time to protect yourself without breaking others! Because protecting the value your Lord gave you is also a form of worship. Remember! Allah entrusted you to "yourself."

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It makes us realize the costs of not being able to say "No" on the soul and body with striking examples.
- It reminds us that consuming oneself for the sake of others' happiness is actually violating one's own rights.
- It shows that setting boundaries in relationships does not decrease love; on the contrary, it makes love clean and safe.
- It shows the difference between "being a good person" and "ignoring oneself," regaining inner peace.
- It explains that a person who draws their own boundaries also respects the boundaries of others.

Take Action:

DON'T SABOTAGING YOURSELF

"If I had any luck, I would be successful!"

"Who am I, anyway? Who do I think I am to do this?"

"Do it perfectly or don't do it at all!"

"Okay, okay, I'm determined. I'm definitely starting tomorrow!"

If these thoughts sound familiar to you, you're not alone.

Get ready to confront procrastination, perfectionism, self-doubt, fear of failure, poor planning, and the countless mental traps that quietly hold us back from reaching our potential.

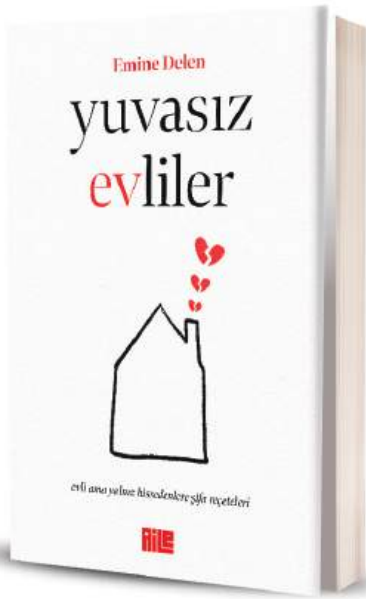

In Take Action / Stop Sabotaging Yourself, personal development expert Canten Kaya invites readers on a journey into the hidden workings of the mind, uncovering the psychological mechanisms that prevent action and offering practical tools to overcome them.

If you want to stop waiting for the perfect moment, start before you feel fully ready, and develop the courage to learn through experience, this book is for you. It is time to meet the greatest obstacle standing in your way and learn how to overcome it.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It reveals why waiting for motivation can become a dangerous habit that quietly postpones dreams and goals.
- It remonstrates how short-term comfort often erodes long-term potential through relatable real-life examples.
- It explores how internal dialogue shapes behavior and helps readers develop greater self-awareness.
- It shows that willpower can be strengthened and that meaningful change is more attainable than many believe.
- It explains how chronic procrastination damages self-esteem and provides guidance for rebuilding confidence.

HOMELESS IN MARRIAGE

Healing Prescriptions for Loneliness Within Marriage

Are you side by side in the same house with your spouse but spiritually miles apart? Do words get stuck in your throat when you have so much to talk about? Do you have a relationship that is close in bed but distant in heart?

Then this book is for you!

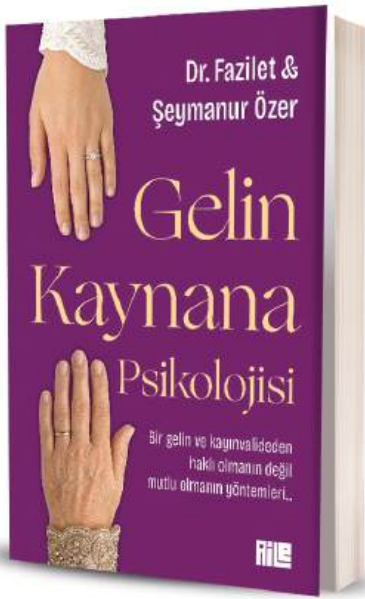

Counselor Emine Delen writes the story of hearts that feel all alone despite being married in "Homeless in Marriage," along with solution proposals that lead every story to a happy ending. Psychological research, case examples, and heartbreaking real-life stories make all wounded hearts reading the book feel that they are not alone.

In this book, you will find ways to make your house a "home" and obtain the right prescription for healing your heart that feels lonely while married.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It shows that the loneliness felt in marriage is not permanent and that marriage is a relationship that can be repaired with awareness.
- It emphasizes repairing instead of magnifying resentments, and the necessity of sincere and open communication instead of silence.
- It helps to understand the traces of childhood wounds in marriage and transform them with compassion.
- It explains that individual awareness leads to relational healing with the understanding of "If I change, we change."
- It reminds us that when every heart can be a home to itself first, the marriage breathes with peace.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF THE BRIDES AND MOTHERS-IN-LAW

Methods for Being Happy Rather Than Being Right, From a Bride and a Mother-in-Law

For the first time in Turkey, the psychology of the bride and mother-in-law relationship is explored by authors who are an expert bride and mother-in-law duo themselves!

Words left unspoken for years, feelings bottled up, and mutual misunderstandings finally come together on the exact same pages.

Brides will see themselves reflected in their mother-in-law's psychology. Mother-in-laws will notice their hearts softening as they look into their daughter-in-law's emotional world.

What do brides truly want from their mothers-in-law?

What kind of relationship do they expect in their newly established homes?

And what about the mothers-in-law?

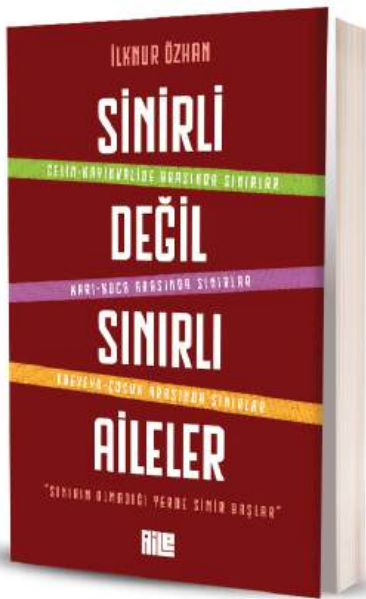

What are their expectations, prayers, and dreams regarding the bond they share with their sons?

"Mother-in-law" Dr. Fazilet Özer and "Bride" Şeymanur Özer put the unspoken dynamics of the bride-mother-in-law relationship on the table—and in the end, this complex bond is beautifully tied to a happy resolution!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It reveals how deeply ingrained stereotypes like the "evil mother-in-law" or the "cranky bride" damage real-world relationships.
- It helps readers understand the unseen vulnerabilities, the fear of losing one's place, and the need for validation felt by mothers-in-law.
- It offers a realistic take on the boundaries, misunderstandings, and the constant feeling of being judged that brides often experience.
- It highlights the fine line between healthy attachment and dependency in the mother-son relationship.
- It demonstrates that conflicts between brides and mothers-in-law often stem from misinterpreted behaviors rather than malice.
- It unpacks the psychological background of anxious thoughts that plague mothers-in-law, such as "They don't want me around" or "I'm losing my son."

NOT ANGRY FAMILIES, BOUNDARIED FAMILIES

“Where there are no boundaries, there is frustration”

“When there are no boundaries, there is anger.”

If voices are raised in a home, it means there are often unmet needs waiting to be heard. When anger grows in a relationship, the underlying cause is generally the absence of healthy boundaries.

For many people, setting boundaries is difficult and often accompanied by guilt. Saying “no” is mistaken for selfishness, self-protection is perceived as rejection, and maintaining personal limits is seen as hurting others. Yet healthy boundaries are the very foundation that protects families from resentment and emotional exhaustion.

In this book, Family Counsellor İlknur Özhan explores invisible boundaries between spouses, tensions between daughters-in-law and mothers-in-law, family interference in marriages, the pressure of social expectations, the erosion of privacy through social media, and common mistakes parents make when setting limits for their children. Drawing on real-life examples and psychological insights, she offers practical guidance for building healthier family relationships.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It demonstrates through compelling examples that boundaries do not weaken relationships they protect them.
- It explains how to balance intimacy and autonomy within the family.
- It shows the impact of extended family interference on marriage and emphasizes safeguarding the family unit from within.
- It shows how controlling behaviors disguised as love can damage relationships and clarifies the difference between closeness and pressure.
- It explains the importance of setting loving yet firm boundaries with children from both scientific and human perspectives.

EDUCATION THROUGH DEPRIVATION

"Mom, I'm bored!"

"Mom, buy me another toy!"

"Dad, get me a phone!"

"Buy that, buy this, buy it all!"

Today's children have everything, yet nothing is enough for them. The number of children sitting in the middle of a room full of hundreds of toys saying "I'm bored" is increasing every day. And parents are burning out day by day in the fire of "What should we buy next?"

Clinical Psychologist Hilal Çorbacioğlu reminds us of the most ancient truth that will be good for our children's souls: Seeing the plenty within the few.

Prepared with scientific research, case examples, and scenes from daily life, this book asks parents this question: "Did you know that you can raise your child to be healthier and stronger by depriving them of certain things?" When you find the answer, you will see that the real secret of raising children is not giving more, but giving right.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It makes us realize that deprivation is not a deficiency, but an opportunity for character development.
- It shows that true satisfaction is provided not by having everything, but by being content with enough.
- It demonstrates the importance of giving at the right time, rather than giving whatever the child wants immediately.
- It creates a strong awareness inviting the reader to simplify, be grateful, and raise children consciously.
- It helps internalize feelings of patience, gratitude, and contentment with natural examples.

RAISING CHILDREN WHO NEITHER BULLY NOR ARE BULLIED

A child doesn't leave home carrying only a school bag. Along with it come fears, worries, and the silent anxiety of wondering, "What will happen today?" And every parent who sends their child off to school carries a concern deep inside: "Will my child be safe?"

In this insightful guide, Child-Friendly Teacher Abdülbaki Altunay addresses one of the most pressing challenges facing today's children: bullying. Despite the rapid pace of modern life, digital distractions, and changing social dynamics, it is still possible to raise children who understand their emotions, manage their thoughts, and value themselves.

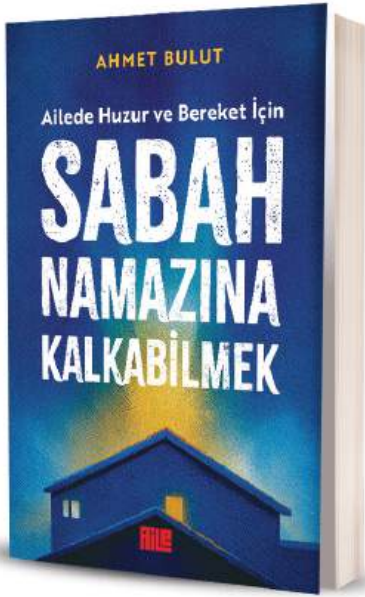

In this book, you will discover the causes of bullying, which children are targeted, the mistakes parents make without realizing it, and most importantly step-by-step guidance on what you need to do; you'll protect your child from both becoming a "bully" and falling prey to "bullies."

You can't put your child in a glass bubble... But you can prepare them for life. And a child who is properly prepared for life won't become a target of bullying! On the contrary, they become someone who stands firm against bullying.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It shows how bullying in the digital world has made its way into the home and explains how to raise your child's awareness of this threat.
- It addresses the common traits of children who are bullied and fosters awareness in parents to find solutions.
- It points out that children who bully others also have a story, helping you understand the issue more deeply.
- It demonstrates how a constantly warned mind weakens empathy and offers ways to break this cycle.
- It explains, both scientifically and practically, how a child who can manage their emotions stands firmer in life.

For Peace and Abundance in the Family WAKING UP FOR THE MORNING PRAYER

Do you struggle to wake up for the morning prayer (Fajr)? Do you set the alarm but hit the “snooze” button when morning comes? Do you succumb to the fatigue of modern life despite wanting to start the day with peace and abundance with your family?

This book is written for those who want to embrace the blessings of the seher (dawn) time! What is the place of the morning prayer in the Quran? Why does the modern lifestyle condemn us to sleep late? How are our brains, biological clocks, and souls affected by this worship? How does the morning prayer add peace and abundance to family relationships?

Prepared with Quran and Hadith-based analyses, sociological readings, and examples from life, this work discusses the morning prayer not just as an act of worship but shows the way for wakefulness at dawn to turn into family peace, inner resurrection, and life abundance.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It teaches how to rebuild peace, unity, and abundance in the family with the first lights of the morning.
- It shows parents love-based ways to make their children love the morning prayer.
- It demonstrates that waking up for prayer is not just waking up early, but managing life itself.
- It offers a practical roadmap that strengthens the will against the procrastination habits of the modern age.
- It shows ways to carry the abundance and mental serenity of the morning prayer into daily life.

EXPLAINING SPIRITUALITY TO GENERATION “Z”

You talk to young people, but do you feel like they don't hear you? Do you think the internet connection has surpassed your family bonds? Do you observe that kindness, spirituality, worship, and meaning are melting away like soap in the new generation?

This book is a magnificent guide to understanding Generation Z and explaining our values to them in a healthy way!

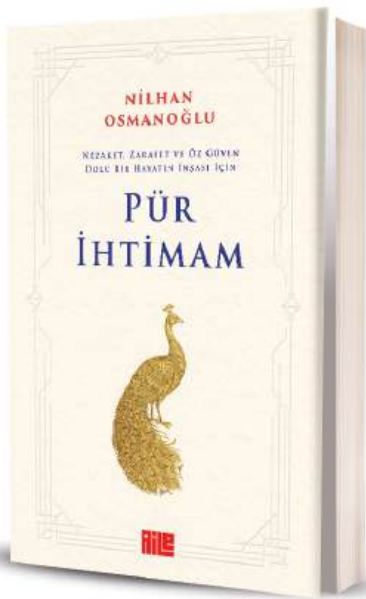

Prepared with a wide perspective ranging from psychology to sociology, from neuroscience to pedagogical approaches, Mustafa Solmaz analyzes the cultural fractures, value gaps, and faith quests shaping the youth of the modern age with a sincere language.

It is easy to criticize by saying, “Today's youth are very disrespectful, far from religion, and have no life purpose!” Are you ready to understand them and add meaning to their lives instead?

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It emphasizes the importance of recognizing the inner world of Generation Z and approaching them with patience, understanding, and compassion.
- It redefines the parental role of spiritual guidance around the axes of love, consistency, and knowledge.
- It guides on speaking without judgment and listening from the heart when communicating with a questioning generation.
- It explains ways to maintain a strong stance with authentic knowledge against the culture of doubt in the modern age.
- It shows the transformative effect of attitude as much as knowledge in religious education.

For Building a Life of Kindness, Grace, and Self-Confidence PURE ATTENTIVENESS

We are surrounded by crowds, yet we are lonely.

We speak constantly, yet feel little understood.

We keep up with everything except life itself.

So what did we lose?

Attentiveness.

Pure Attentiveness was written to remind us of the courtesy, kindness, and self-respect forgotten in the fast pace of the modern world and to show that true elegance is the strongest form of presence.

Nilhan Osmanoğlu, granddaughter of Sultan Abdülhamid II, brings the refined understanding of grace distilled from Ottoman wisdom into conversation with today's world.

She approaches etiquette not as a set of rigid social rules, but as a way of seeing life, an ethic of relating to others, and a foundation for character building.

At the table, on the street, within the family, in relationships, during moments of crisis, and in everyday life... The book teaches where to stand, when to speak, when to remain silent and most importantly, how to cultivate respect for oneself and for others.

If you wish to add a little more balance to your life, more delicacy to your relationships, and more care toward yourself and your loved ones, this book is ready to accompany you.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It transforms etiquette from a dry set of rules into a living discipline of character.
- It reminds us that kindness is not weakness, but strength and re-centers grace in contemporary life.
- It demonstrates, through powerful examples, that respect for others begins with self-respect.
- It distinguishes strength from rudeness, showing how to set boundaries with courtesy.
- It illustrates how manners cultivated within the family evolve into a shared language of peace in society.

WHAT HAVE WE LOST FROM THE OTTOMAN ERA TO THE PRESENT?

Human beings are creatures who lose their way as they forget...

Just like individuals, nations too sometimes drift away from the world of spirit and meaning that gives them life. Collective memory weakens; values such as wisdom, justice, morality and compassion are lost.

Like individuals, nations can also drift away from the spirit and values that once gave them life. As collective memory fades, timeless virtues such as wisdom, justice, courtesy, and compassion gradually disappear.

So, where is that deep-rooted capital we need to rebuild the future?

This book is a window onto the true legacy of the Ottoman Empire, beyond the conquests, palaces and magnificent monuments... A journey to refresh our memory: from the Enderun's educational model aimed at nurturing virtuous individuals to the elegance of neighbourhood culture; from the civilisation of waqfs to a sensitivity towards courtesy, good manners and justice...

The past is not merely something left behind; it is a memory that still speaks to us today.

This book is for everyone who feels the weight of forgetting and heeds the sincere call to remember once more...

Because remembering is the first step towards rebuilding.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It invites the reader on a profound journey of self-reflection by exploring the questions: "What have we lost, and what should we carry into the future?"
- It encourages readers to restore timeless values such as courtesy, morality, justice, and compassion to the heart of everyday life, rather than leaving them as distant memories of history.
- It presents the Ottoman Empire not merely as a political power known for its territorial expansion and monumental architecture, but as a civilization dedicated to cultivating well-rounded, virtuous individuals.
- It demonstrates how a civilization that endured for more than six centuries shaped the human spirit through its traditions of philanthropy, justice, refinement, and moral conduct.
- It moves beyond dry historical facts and chronological narratives to offer a thought-provoking interpretation of history that speaks directly to contemporary readers.

MY LORD, HEAL ME

The Cry of a Heart Seeking Healing

A husband. A father. A fifty-year-old man.

And suddenly, a chronic illness appearing at his door without warning.

Profound realizations awakened by the possibility of death.

Hours, days, weeks, and months woven with fear, anxiety, gratitude, and contemplation...

Lines that touch the emotional worlds of patients, the healthy, and those who stand beside the ill.

“As I write these lines, I am still in pain. But I am no longer running from myself, from my illness, from my fear.

I learned something: a person can even postpone crying. But sometimes not crying is more exhausting than crying itself.

If someone ever reads these lines, I want them to know this: I didn't try to look strong. I only tried not to fall apart in front of my children. And if you must cry... Please cry after I'm gone. Not while I'm still here.”

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It speaks directly to patients, caregivers, the healthy, and anyone who keeps postponing life.
- It presents pain without dramatization or embellishment, allowing readers space to encounter their own emotions honestly.
- It explores fatherhood, marriage, and adult responsibility without turning them into heroic narratives.
- It gives voice to the fear, anxiety, and exhaustion hidden behind the obligation to appear strong.
- It does not offer ready-made consolation; instead, invites slowing down, pausing, and becoming aware.

FREE YOURSELF FROM WHAT WEIGHS DOWN YOUR SOUL

The Journey of Consciousness Development and Self-Transformation

The great thinker Leo Tolstoy once said, "To operate on the body, a person must be put to sleep; to operate on the soul, a person must be awakened."

Working on one's consciousness is one of the wisest pursuits in life. As a person's level of awareness grows, so does their ability to contribute positively to the world. Titles, achievements, and status alone cannot provide fulfilment without inner growth.

According to Dr. Zülfikar Özkan, higher levels of consciousness naturally lead to greater happiness, stronger relationships, reduced anxiety, and a more meaningful life. As individuals and societies become more conscious, well-being increases while many social problems diminish.

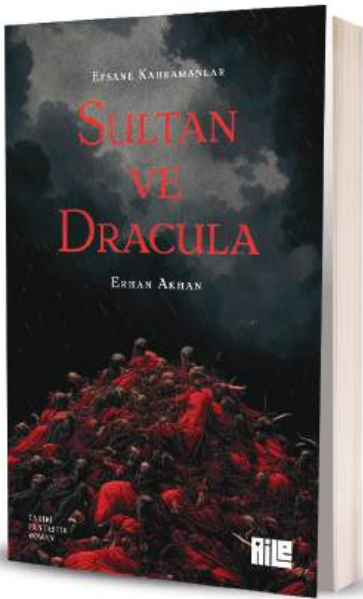

This book introduces readers to the concept of "wisdom consciousness," a state in which they can free themselves from burdens that exhaust the soul, develop deeper self-awareness, strengthen empathy, and gain a broader perspective on life.

As consciousness expands, people begin to rediscover both themselves and the world around them.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It combines psychology, wisdom traditions, and spiritual awareness to offer a multidimensional perspective on personal growth.
- It explains how increasing consciousness transforms thinking patterns, relationships, and life perspectives.
- It demonstrates that genuine peace begins with inner transformation rather than external circumstances.
- It brings together scientific research, philosophical insights, and lived experience within a unified framework.
- It shows through inspiring stories how people who see the bigger picture often lead more peaceful and productive lives.

Legendary Heroes Series – 1 SULTAN AND DRACULA

“Vlaaad!”

“Who’s there?”

“I’m the one you’ve been waiting for!”

“What? You mean...”

“Yes! You can call me the Devil, or Satan, or Lucifer! I am called by many names in many lands. But no matter what name you call me, it’s me!”

Mystery, fear and war!

Beginning in 1458 in Targoviste, the capital of Wallachia, this dark tale sparks a war that can only be written in blood. Dracula, known for his legendary cruelty, makes a pact with the Devil and turns into an inhuman creature. The valiant raiders of the Ottoman Empire and Mehmet the Conqueror devise a brilliant plan to defeat this cruel demon!

Blending historical facts and imagination, this epic story will fascinate and terrify you at the same time. Are you ready to witness this fantastic world? When you read it, you will not believe what is legend and what is reality!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- This book blends the three different genres of ‘history, action and fantasy fiction’ in an unprecedented style and promises the reader an enormous literary feast.
- It presents historical facts in an action-packed adventure.
- It blends fantastic elements, which are especially admired by young people, with a clean content and moral values.

Legendary Heroes Series – 2 THE AKINCI AND THE VAMPIRE

“Let’s see if your faith stops my swords. You may be strong, but you are not immortal. You are bleeding!” said Vlad.

Ali Bey managed to open a small wound on Vlad’s right shoulder with a counter-move with his prayer-inscribed sword. “You are bleeding too! I will take both your blood and your life, Ya Allah!” (“Oh Allah!”

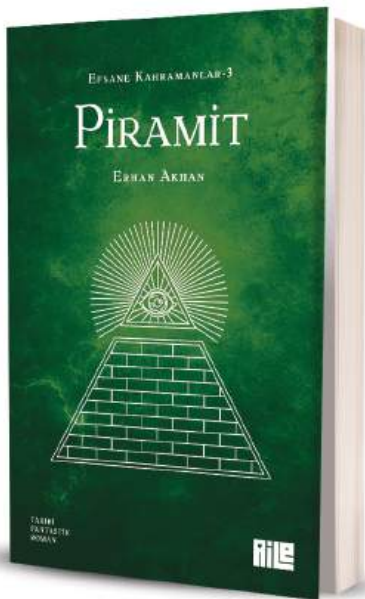

The shadow of the ancient war that started in the “Sultan and Dracula” saga returns this time as a wilder darkness. The dark entity descending from Dracula emerges to complete what his ancestor left unfinished. Ali Bey, the young and brave Ottoman Raider, finds himself in a struggle woven by blood, talismans, and secrets.

Ominous whispers rising at night, steps shaking the earth, and red eyes gliding through the shadows... They all point to a single truth: Darkness is returning. And there is only one hero left to stand against it. If you are ready, the legend begins again.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It powerfully portrays the courage of the Ottoman Akinci raiders by blending history and fantasy against the threat of dark vampiric forces.
- It presents the spirit of the Ottoman world through action-driven scenes and a compelling struggle between good and evil.
- It reinterprets vampire mythology beyond conventional tropes, offering a distinctive and original local perspective.
- It maintains a strong sense of suspense with a fast-paced plot that keeps readers engaged from the first page to the last.
- It offers young readers a well-rounded reading experience that combines adventure with a meaningful values framework.

Legendary Heroes Series – 3

THE PYRAMID

“Cemil!” he said sincerely. “Do you know how much I wondered about you? Where have you been all this time? Tell me, what happened? Did you find the Pyramid?”

Then he lowered his voice despite his excitement. “And what happened to your vampire friend?”

That ancient war that started in “Sultan and Dracula” grew even bigger with the rebirth of darkness in “The Raider and The Vampire,” and now it has moved to a completely different dimension. The enemy hiding in the shadows is no longer alone; a deadly secret, whose traces stretch from the dark streets of America to the stone memory of Istanbul, is reawakening.

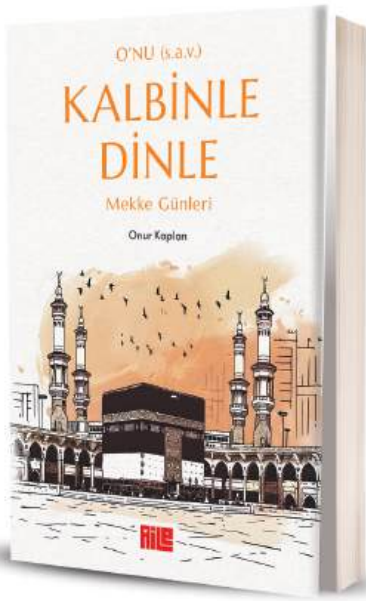

Those lost in the corridors of New York... Talismanic relics protected for centuries... And a mysterious structure challenging the entire history of humanity: “THE PYRAMID.”

Shadows are growing, secrets are unfolding... And the legend is being rewritten for the third time. If you are ready, darkness is coming to shake the world from the top of a pyramid this time.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- Through a narrative that places human dignity in direct opposition to darkness, the novel instills a strong sense of hope and resilience in the reader.
- Its powerful fantasy plot, woven with a rich historical backdrop, draws readers into a fast-paced and immersive adventure.
- By centering on the conflict between power, faith, and conscience, the story clearly reveals the cost of difficult moral choices.
- It uses elements of fear and suspense with restraint, creating an effective atmosphere without overwhelming the reader.
- It blends the vampire myth with historical reality to build an original narrative, contributing a distinctive voice to contemporary Turkish fantasy literature.

LISTEN TO HIM (PBUH) WITH YOUR HEART

Mecca Days

Let's go back centuries ago, follow the rose-scented footprints and witness how a coal-black age turned into a century of happiness. Let's read and understand the Days of Mecca, from the birth of the Prophet (PBUH) to his youth, from his prophethood to his migration journey, and let's look at it through today's glasses and embroider it in our hearts. Let's listen to the adventure of this marvellous life with our hearts...

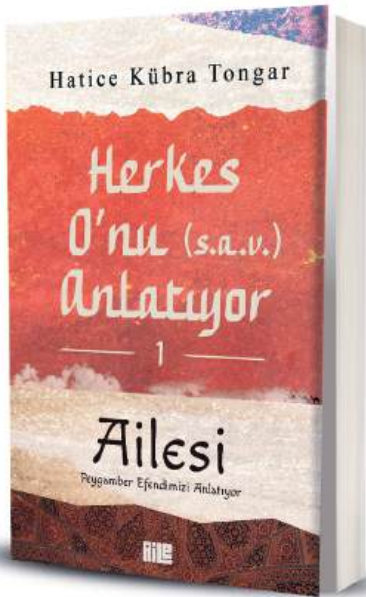

Onur Kaplan, who has touched tens of thousands of young people with his pen and words, invites his readers to a rose-scented journey this time. Days return to yesterday, calendars herald a blessed birth, and His (PBUH) life guides today.

'In this age where televisions and social media platforms infiltrate from our bedrooms to the farthest corners of our minds, it is the modern age's own hijra to stay away from bad influences and to pursue the environments where the divine declaration echoes in order to purify our minds and hearts.'

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It tells how freedom came to a society condemned to the shackles of slavery.
- It teaches the way to see the sun behind the fog when the fog curtain of ignorance was hanging in the skies of Mecca.
- Only the life of this unique example can heal the wounded hearts of today.

EVERYONE TALKS ABOUT HIM – 1

His Family Talks About Our Prophet (PBUH)

Close your eyes and let time flow backwards like grains of sand in the desert. Let history go back one thousand five hundred years, let the calendar show the Age of Bliss, let our eyes turn to the peaceful home. Let the memories of our beautiful Prophet (PBUH) touch our hearts through the language of his family.

This book tells the story of Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) through the language of his grandfather Abdulmuttalib, father Abdullah, mother Amine, wet nurse Halime and beloved wife Khadija. The clocks turn back, history comes alive again and... "His family tell about him."

"My only grandchild, of whom I am proud to be a grandfather, whose birth enlightened my world. The one I can't get enough of, the one in whose eyes I see heaven..." A grandfather in his eighties, talking about his grandchild...

"I am Abdullah. Abdullah who was chosen as a sacrifice like his ancestor Ismail. Abdullah, who lived with the fate of his orphan Muhammad being called 'the son of two sacrifices' years later..." A father writing imaginary letters to the son he has never seen...

"That night I realized that the inside of my house was filled with light that the sun had risen inside. A fragrance I had never smelled before was emanating from his skin." A mother talking about her orphaned child...

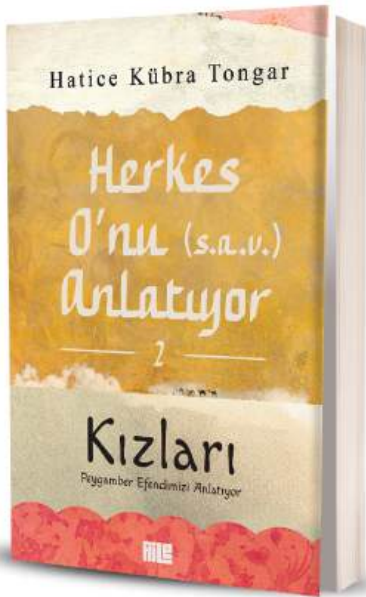

"He was two years old, but he was different from his peers. Everyone who saw him marveled at him, and I was worried about the evil eye." A wet nurse describing her baby...

"As my soul left the cage of my body, all the memories of my life with Him flashed before my eyes one by one. Our first acquaintance, our marriage, our heavenly flowers blooming one by one, our offspring, our prayers, our first sajdah before Allah as husband and wife, our hand in hand thanksgiving..." A wife who talks about love, patience, sacrifice...

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It tells the memories of the Prophet (PBUH) through the language of those who lived with him.
- By including emotions as well as events, it enables the reader to establish a bond with the Prophet (PBUH). In this respect, it is highly recommended for all young people.
- It makes us feel the spirit of Asr-i Saadath (Age of Happiness) with its marvellous illustrations.

EVERYONE TALKS ABOUT HIM – 2

His Daughters Talk About Our Prophet (PBUH)

Close your eyes and let time flow backwards like grains of sand scattered in the desert. Let history go back one thousand five hundred years, let the calendar show Asri- Saadath, let our eyes turn to his happy family life. Let the memories of our beautiful Prophet (PBUH) touch our hearts through the language of his daughters.

This book tells the Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) from the language of his daughters Zaynab, Ruqiyya, Umm Kulthum and Fatima. The clocks turn back, history comes alive again and... "His daughters tell about him."

"My father took me in his arms and in the presence of everyone, he gave me my name, which means 'the ornament of her father': Zaynab..." His daughter Hazrat Zaynab, who talked about her father with affection...

"My father and mother were a husband and wife who got along very well, nourished each other with their love and kept their love and affection always fresh. I knew it when their eyes touched each other; I said to myself that such a love had never been experienced in any period of time." Hazrat Ruqiyya describing the affection in her family with love...

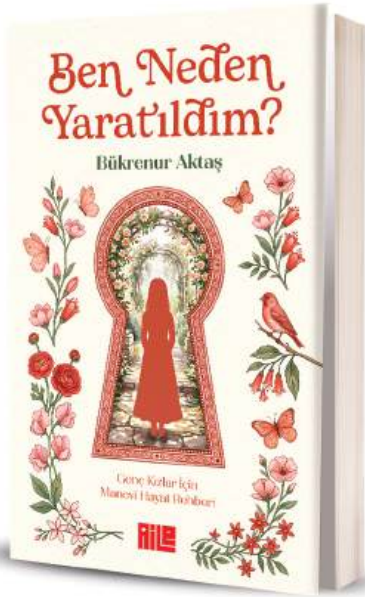

"I had never seen my father so sad until that day; he had been subjected to so many troubles, so many torments, but this pain seemed to make him forget them all. He no longer had Khadija." Hazrat Umm Kulthum recounting her memories with her father moment by moment...

"I am Fatima, also known as 'Umm Abiha', that is, 'her father's mother'. They used to call me like that. They gave me this tag because of my extreme fondness, interest and love for my father." Hazrat Fatima, who weaves her memories into the lines...

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It tells the memories of our Prophet (PBUH) with his daughters from their language.
- While reading the memories, tears accompany your lines and your hearts become warm.
- It makes you feel the spirit of Asr-i Saadath.

WHY WAS I CREATED?

A Spiritual Guide for Young Girls

Who am I?

Where did I come from?

Where am I going?

What does my Creator expect from me?

These are the timeless questions that rise from the depths of every human soul.

In a world constantly urging young people to be faster, stronger, and more successful, many find themselves exhausted, restless, and unable to understand why nothing seems to bring lasting fulfilment.

This book offers young readers a different perspective. It invites them to pause, reflect, and rediscover their place in the universe. Through thoughtful reflections and spiritual insights, it encourages them to recognize their purpose, understand their relationship with their Creator, and find peace through faith, gratitude, and trust.

As the journey unfolds, readers discover a powerful truth: they are not abandoned, they are not purposeless, and they are far from ordinary. They were created not merely to exist, but to seek meaning, discover themselves, and strengthen their connection with the One who never leaves them alone.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It provides clear and compelling answers to life's fundamental questions about identity, purpose, and destiny.
- It helps young readers overcome feelings of emptiness and rediscover a meaningful perspective on life.
- It encourages a loving and heartfelt relationship with God based on trust rather than fear.
- It demonstrates how everyday actions can gain spiritual significance and deeper meaning.
- It guides readers toward achieving balance between worldly responsibilities and spiritual aspirations.

HAVE YOU FOUND THE WAY BACK TO YOURSELF

The Story of Those Who Found What They Sought Outside, Within Themselves

You were looking for yourself; have you found you?

Sometimes, right in the middle of life, even when everything seems to be going perfectly, something feels missing inside. You cannot put a name to it, but you feel it. This book was born out of that very feeling.

It is the story of a journey inward of a person who thought they were strong, only to realize how exhausted they truly were; who felt successful, yet remained empty inside, lost with no direction left to turn...

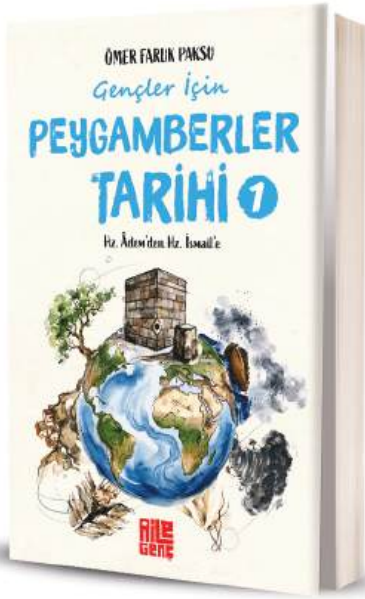

A path that unfolds slowly, through trials and triumphs, moving forward without ever giving up. A journey of drawing closer to oneself sometimes in a moment of prostration, sometimes within a single sentence, and at times, through those difficult questions one dares to ask oneself...

Remember, the place you are running from is actually yourself. And if a life is to change, first, you must change. With this book, perhaps for the very first time, you will find what you have been searching for on the outside, deep within yourself...

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It offers a fresh perspective on the attention deficit, dissatisfaction, and lack of direction experienced by today's youth.
- It prompts readers to realize that burnout stems not just from physical exhaustion, but from a loss of meaning.
- It demonstrates that spiritual transformation does not happen overnight; it is a journey of falling, struggling, and rising again and again.
- It explains with everyday examples how prayer, supplication, and contemplation can ground and clear a cluttered mind.
- It explores how habits of reading, note-taking, reflecting, and writing shape a person's inner world.
- It assures young people who are searching for themselves, feeling weary, or emotionally scattered, that they are not alone.

THE HISTORY OF THE PROPHETS FOR YOUNG READERS – 1

From Prophet Adam to Prophet Ishmael

“The History of the Prophets for Young People – 1” introduces young readers to the inspiring stories of the blessed prophets who bound their hearts and minds to the Almighty Creator, beginning with humanity’s earliest days on Earth.

The journey begins with Prophet Adam, the first human being and Allah’s first vicegerent on Earth, whose challenging path led from Paradise to the earthly world. It continues with Prophet Idris, who was raised to the heavens as a reward for his wisdom, knowledge, and unwavering patience.

Discover the story of Prophet Noah, whose Ark became a symbol of salvation after nine hundred and fifty years of perseverance against a defiant people, and the Great Flood that changed the course of history.

Meet Prophet Hud, the courageous messenger who stood firmly against the arrogance of the people of Iram, the legendary City of Pillars. Follow Prophet Salih, who called the people of Thamud -renowned for carving their homes into solid rock- to the worship of the One Allah, and the miracle of his she-camel.

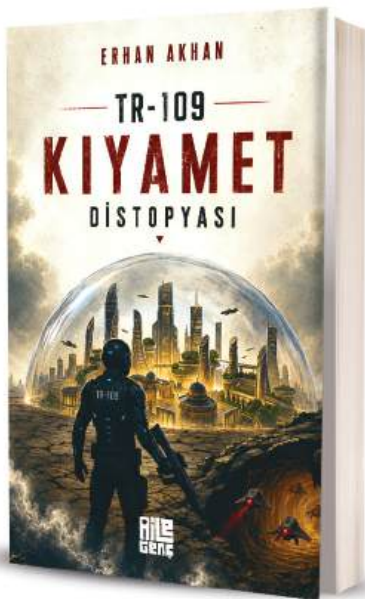

Experience Prophet Abraham, who, through his submission, transformed Nimrod’s mountain-like blazing fire into a rose garden. And journey with the Prophet Ishmael, who grew up amidst the bounty of Zamzam springing forth from barren deserts and dedicated his life to his father’s dream...

As the first volume of a three-book series, it invites readers on an extraordinary journey through sacred history, from Prophet Adam, the father of humankind, to Prophet Ishmael, the enduring symbol of tawakkul (trust in Allah).

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It introduces young readers to the lives of the prophets, from the creation of the world and Prophet Adam to Prophet Ishmael.
- It provides thoughtful and engaging answers to young people’s questions about faith through inspiring stories from the lives of the prophets.
- It presents the prophets as timeless role models, highlighting their shared virtues of honesty, trustworthiness, justice, and moral integrity.
- It shows, through remarkable historical accounts, that those who place their faith and trust in Allah ultimately find strength, hope, and success.

TR-109: APOCALYPSE DYSTOPIA

After the Great War, nearly all life on Earth had disappeared. As the planet was ravaged by radiation, an organization known only as "The Company" established a seemingly perfect society for the survivors inside magnificent domed cities.

Artificial intelligence, robots, and servants whose memories had been erased during their childhood so they could be trained. When their terms of service ended, they retired to an immortal life within the domed cities. The Company identified these nameless youths by code numbers.

TR-109 -nicknamed Big T by his friends- is one of the elite soldiers entrusted with protecting this flawless order. But what begins as a routine reconnaissance mission soon unravels both his life and the foundations of the new world. What dark secrets and deadly sins lie beneath this utopian paradise?

Author Erhan Akhan, well known for his skilfully crafted historical and fantasy tales, now turns his attention to the future. TR-109 Apocalypse Dystopia invites readers into a future where reality is far more dangerous than it appears, with its relentless pace of action, gripping plot and thought-provoking science fiction universe.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It introduces young readers to an imaginative futuristic world while encouraging them to explore the possibilities and challenges of science fiction.
- It highlights the devastating consequences of the Great War, reminding readers of the importance of protecting all forms of life humans, animals, and nature.
- It celebrates the enduring values of friendship, loyalty, and self-sacrifice as Big T's companions risk everything to stand by his side.
- It inspires readers to reflect on the future of humanity and encourages them to explore the past, present, and future of civilizations.
- It offers a fast-paced, cinematic reading experience filled with suspense, adventure, and unexpected twists that keep readers turning the pages.

THE BUTTERFLY'S DREAM

A Story of Freedom

This is the story of Mercan and the blue butterfly that carries centuries of hope within an extraordinary necklace.

Passed down through different eras, an ancient necklace of remarkable beauty bears witness to countless moments in history as it adorns the necks of different people. It has witnessed glorious conquests and celebrated victories, as well as heartbreaking defeats and times of oppression.

The blue butterfly lives not inside a cocoon, but within this mysterious necklace. Its journey first crosses paths with Ezgi, a young woman who returns to Turkey after completing her education abroad. Later, it accompanies Mercan, a young Palestinian girl, bearing witness to the realities of life in Gaza.

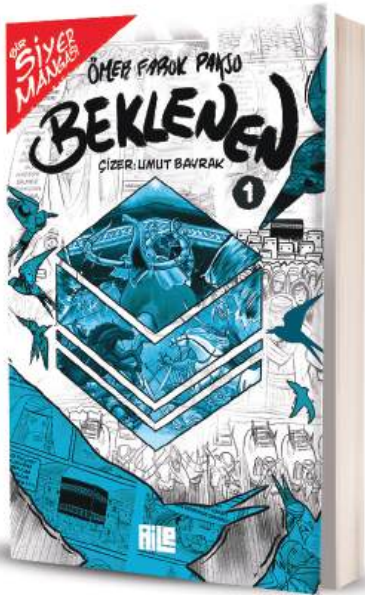

Guided by the blue butterfly, readers embark on a journey that is at times breathtakingly adventurous and at others deeply moving. Along the way, they discover the legacy of an ancient civilization, the resilience of a people who refuse to surrender, and the enduring power of hope that never fades.

Never forget, a butterfly's dream can embrace the world. And the dream of a child can become the force that transforms legendary resistance into freedom.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It inspires readers through the intertwined journeys of Ezgi from Türkiye and Mercan from Gaza, showing how compassion, solidarity, and shared humanity can create bonds stronger than blood.
- It explores the historical and cultural significance of Palestine while portraying the realities and hardships of life in Gaza, encouraging greater awareness and empathy.
- It inspires young readers to hold on to hope, persevere through adversity, and never give up, even in the most challenging circumstances.
- It opens a window onto different lives and cultures, encouraging readers to understand the struggles of others and appreciate the resilience of those who endure hardship.
- It presents Mercan's determination to pursue her university education in Türkiye while leaving her family behind in Gaza as an inspiring example of setting meaningful goals and striving to achieve them.

A Seerah Manga THE AWAITED – 1

He (PBUH) was expected for centuries. His way was observed, longed for, hoped for his arrival.

This is the first manga serie about the life of our Prophet (PBUH)!

A breathless fiction, a fluent and gripping narration, panels that look like film scenes.

Seerah has never been written so vividly, never told so close to the world of young people.

Dust off your library!

The awaited is coming!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It brings a modern interpretation to Al-Sira al-Nabawiyya dealing with the life of the Prophet (PBUH) in a manga format.

A Seerah Manga THE AWAITED – 2

Turkey's first and only Seerah (Prophetic Biography) Manga, The Expected One, continues with the childhood years of our Prophet (PBUH) in its second volume!

Did young Muhammad (PBUH) escape the danger posed by the Jews?

What was the terrifying incident he experienced in the village of his foster mother, Halimah?

Where and from whom did he learn how to swim?

How did the loss of his mother and grandfather shape him?

Who followed him during his journey with his uncle?

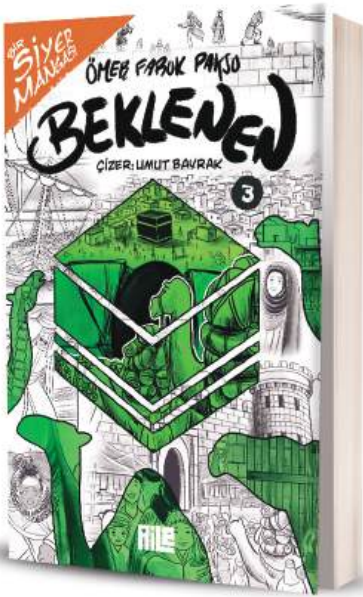

Why did everyone want to trade with him?

With its fast-paced storytelling and cinematic scenes, The Awaited continues right where it left off.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- ▶ It brings the Seerah of the Prophet (PBUH) closer to young readers by presenting his childhood and youth in an engaging manga format.
- ▶ Introduces children and young people to the Prophet (PBUH) through rich visuals, dynamic illustrations, and a warm, heartfelt narrative that inspires love and connection.
- ▶ Vividly portrays his years with his foster mother, his childhood in Mecca, and his early steps into youth through a smooth and captivating storyline.
- ▶ Shares the real-life events through which he earned the honorable title "Muhammad al-Amin", beloved for his honesty and trustworthiness.
- ▶ Opens the door to meaningful conversations and reflections that encourage young readers to place love for the Prophet (PBUH) at the heart of their lives.

A Seerah Manga THE AWAITED – 3

Turkey's first and only Seerah (Prophetic Biography) Manga, "The Awaited -3," tells the story of our Prophet's (PBUH) youth in this book.

How did young Muhammad (PBUH) support his family during the famine days in Mecca? What extraordinary events occurred during the long journey to Damascus? How did the feelings sprouting in Mother Khadija's heart turn into a destiny line? Why did Zayd b. Harithah say, "I choose Muhammad," on his journey to freedom? How did he find a solution to the great fight between the tribes while the Kaaba was being rebuilt?

"The Awaited" continues where it left off with its emotion-laden narrative and cinema-like scenes.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It presents a strong character model based on effort, patience, justice, and compassion by narrating the youth years of the Prophet (PBUH).
- It explains with examples how honesty beautifies life by highlighting the trustworthy personality of Young Muhammad (PBUH).
- It expresses with an elegant style how the bond full of trust and love with Khadija was formed.
- It impressively shows how mercy conquers hearts by telling the freedom story of Zayd b. Harithah.
- It describes how making the right decision heals society through the scene of justice in the reconstruction of the Kaaba.

When he thinks everything is over, Mert is selected for an inter-world competition that has been going on for thousands of years. Will he be able to complete the challenging task in the mushroom world?

Or will he turn into a horrible mushroom like the others before he finishes his mission?

Hey, Mate!

You are either in or out of this competition.

Choose your side.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It instils a sense of heroism through a fantastic fiction.
- It encourages the recovery of lost human feelings.
- It reminds us of the importance of concepts such as struggle, effort and sacrifice.

SILLE (THE SLAP) – 3

The Fight to Protect the Innocent Continues

Cemil Sille, the grandson of the legendary Janissary Tokatçı Pasha, and the sharp-witted Kendo Hande find themselves in the middle of a very dark adventure this time!

Dunganga, unleashed from the magical book of Father Martin, moves stealthily through the shadows.

In the middle of the street, it transforms into a giant bird—then into a cloaked monster!

And that's not all!

Our heroes suddenly shrink and have to flee from a sewer rat! As if things weren't intense enough, a new motorbike-riding hero joins the team: Maaaarriiaaaaa!

With the power of the Ottoman slap, friendship, courage, and plenty of action come together once again.

What will Cemil do this time?

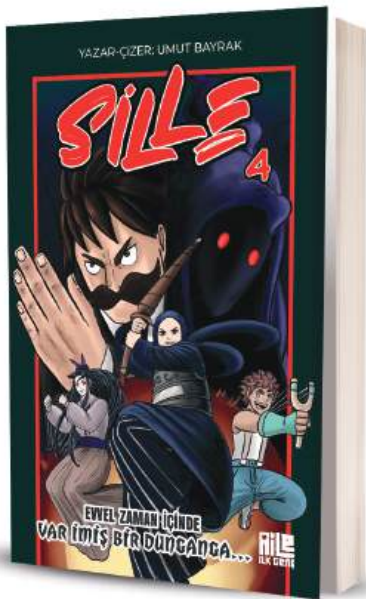

Slap/Sille fans fasten your seatbelts!

This slap might shake things up!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It presents a hero who is brave without being angry, strong yet compassionate.
- Teaches awareness and vigilance by revealing the evils hidden in the shadows.
- Connects the protection of the innocent with a just and honorable struggle.
- Uses symbolism to reflect everyday challenges and suggest meaningful solutions.
- Blends humor, action, and spirituality into a distinctive and original local narrative.

SILLE (THE SLAP) – 4

Once Upon a Time There Was a Dunganga...

Those who love legends, monsters waking up from Yeşilçam (Turkish Cinema) movies, and the Ottoman slap... Welcome to Sille's most fantastic adventure yet!

Priest Martin's magic book doesn't just birth a fairy tale monster this time... A real Dunganga wakes up, sucking children into its sack like a vacuum. And for the first time, Cemil's slap struggles to find its target...

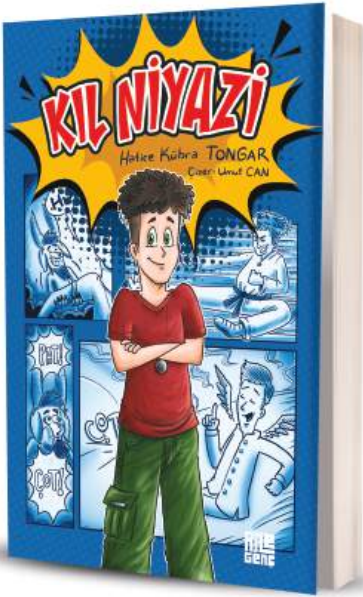

The streets are empty... Cars are lifting into the air... A giant silhouette roams the sky... And children disappear one by one. While Cemil, Mariya, and Nedim race against time, things get even more complicated. Hande is kidnapped by Dunganga! Now everything depends on a single plan: To defeat Dunganga before it reaches its full form.

Slap/Sille fans, fasten your seatbelts! Danger is close in this episode, and the slap/ sille is really, really hard!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It shows how effective courage and solidarity are in defeating darkness while solving Dunganga's mysterious threat.
- Strengthens the ability to establish healthy connections between events by teaching how to combine mysterious clues.
- Offers a dynamic narrative that increases the desire to read with the tempo of the adventure and makes it easier to focus attention.
- Develops research and questioning skills in the face of unknowns by keeping children's sense of curiosity alive.
- Naturally shows children that fear is a manageable emotion while introducing the dark power of Dunganga.

WHO ALL HAVE PASSED THROUGH HAGIA SOPHIA?

I am Hagia Sophia...

Built by Constantine, it was rebuilt by the order of Emperor II. Theodosius after being burned to ashes, then collapsed again, and constructed by Justinian, it has survived to this day. Each stone bears the signatures and prayers of many from sultans to scholars, architects to poets, and calligraphers to travelers. It is the Muslim sanctuary Hagia Sophia, which Fatih Sultan Mehmet claimed by right of sword, and which was elevated by the minarets of Architect Sinan.

From my first day, I have told you about the people who have put their effort into me and carried different intentions. In my fifteen hundred years of existence, just look at what I have experienced, what I have witnessed, and whom I have hosted.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It raises awareness about the protection and future of Hagia Sophia.
- It emphasizes that Hagia Sophia is not only a religious structure but also a political and cultural symbol.
- It informs about the current status and future of Hagia Sophia.
- With its unique illustrations, it vividly conveys historical events.

THERE IS A PLACE IN MY MIND

Well, dear friend! Let me explain the rules of the game. Maybe you already know this game. If you don't, it's very easy and enjoyable. You will learn it quickly.

Here's how our game goes: I hold a place in my mind. And I say to you: "I have a place in my mind?" You ask for a clue. You say: "What kind of place is it?"

But it's not that easy! You might not guess it quickly, not in the first question. Don't worry! Keep asking me: "What kind of place is it?"

The author of books beloved by millions of children and young people, Hatice Kübra Tongar, holds a place in their mind. She tells the history of this place to the young people by giving them clues. Of course, without mentioning the name of the place! It's up to them to figure out where it is.

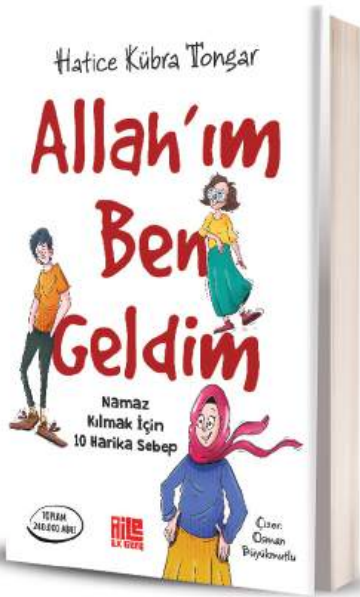

At the end of the book, the young people are in for a huge surprise.

So, let's ask right away: "What kind of place is it?"

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It narrates the history of Al-Quds to our youth in a fun game format.
- It creates an awareness-raising bridge from the past to the present.
- It intrigues the reader with a surprising ending marked by thermal labels.

O ALLAH, HERE I AM

10 Remarkable Reasons to Perform Salah

One day, someone may come to you and whisper:

"Don't worry! You can pray when you are older."

"Your heart is pure anyway, you don't need to pray."

"Your prayer wouldn't be accepted. Who are you to pray?"

"Oh come on, a whole lifetime! Who can pray five times a day?"

"Even if you don't pray, Allah will forgive you."

"Does Allah really need your prayer?"

"With all your responsibilities, there's no time for prayer."

Now you know exactly how to respond.

Tell these answers to your friends.

Tell them to yourself five times a day.

And every time you hear the call to prayer, turn toward your Lord and say:

"O Allah, here I am."

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It illustrates the importance and beauty of prayer in everyday life through clear and relatable real-life examples.
- It helps children and young readers find meaningful answers to the question, "Why do I pray?"
- It presents prayer not merely as a duty, but as a special moment of connection and encounter with Allah.
- It highlights prayer as a spiritual shield that protects the heart and soul from harmful influences through powerful and engaging narratives.
- It invites readers to discover the true meaning of prayer and conveys the positive impact of worship on daily life in an enjoyable and accessible tone.

THE CROWN OF HONOR

Remaining the Hijab as a Symbol of Values and Identity

Everything Allah (Glorified and Exalted is He) commands carries reasons that embrace, heal, and beautify you. When these commands are seen merely as obligations, their inner wisdom is often overlooked yet they are what make us truly valuable and dignified.

This book explains that modest dress is not a fashion trend, but a source of beauty, worth, and the strongest bond between you and your Lord.

It is not written like a theology or religious textbook... Rather, it feels like a heartfelt roadmap passed from a modest older sister to her younger friend, gently helping you find your way.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It answers young girls' question: "Why do I cover?"
- It frames modesty as a conscious identity choice.
- It bridges faith and daily life.
- It strengthens spiritual confidence.
- It helps young girls feel valued and respected.

HEM AND HAW

The Answers to All the Questions You Wonder About Your Gender in This Book!

When someone says “Shush, it’s shameful!”, when we ask them about something, their skin colour turns red and they start to “frown”, then it is a matter of life and death to learn about that subject!

What is sexuality?

What is reproduction?

What is gender?

How does a baby enter its mother’s womb?

And how does it come out when the time comes?

How are babies formed?

How do babies live in the womb?

How does one reach puberty?

How do I protect my body?

In this book, I have written the answers to all these questions.

And I assure you, I did not “fudge” in any of the answers!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It answers all questions related to gender, sexuality, and reproduction in the minds of adolescents.
- It reassures young people that there is “nothing to be ashamed of” regarding their bodily development.
- It guides young people to better understand themselves, their bodies, and their gender.
- It doesn’t hesitate to answer any questions!

AT DOUBLE SPEED

Just like every child, I wanted to grow up. And I did... But not like every child! The time between my thirteenth and fourteenth years passed at a strange speed: At double speed!

Everything happened so fast that that year, I missed countless memories I could have lived through holidays, games, exams, classes, family conversations, playing with Yumak, the chirps of Cicikuş, my grandmother's stories... All the things I could have experienced in a year!

How did all this happen? Hold on, I'll tell you everything. Slowly...

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It conveys how precious things that seem boring in life can be.
- It helps children and young people realize the importance of enjoying the moment rather than rushing through life.
- It advises against becoming a slave to the virtual world.

OH NO, IDIOMS HAVE GONE WILD!

An amazing adventure from Hatice Kübra Tongar, who embraces millions of children with her lines!

Have you ever wondered what would happen if you actually turned into a tree when you said, "I've taken root waiting"? Or what if your head literally swelled up when you said, "My head is swelling" (I'm overwhelmed)

In this book, that is exactly what happens! The neighborhood residents wake up one morning, and the idioms they use in daily life start turning into reality one by one. Someone turns into a tree, another's head swells up, and some freeze into ice...

Then things get out of hand! In this book, every single idiom comes true! You will burst into laughter, your jaw will drop in astonishment, and you will join Ahmet and Mehmet in the adventure to solve the secrets of these idioms. Idioms have never been this much fun!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It makes the colorful world of language lovable for children by turning idioms into a fun adventure.
- Combines the power of words with humor, sensing that language is a living entity.
- Shows that laughing, being surprised, and learning can go hand in hand, increasing the desire to read.
- Makes children realize the meanings of the idioms they use and develops language consciousness.
- Expands children's power of expression and imagination by sensing the emotions behind the idioms.

NIYAZI / A FANTASTIC PLAN

Just as I was about to go to bed, BOOM! It sat right in front of me.

Before I could even ask, “What’s going on? Who are you? Why are you here?” it jumped straight into the conversation.

“The time has come,” it said. “We’re going to talk about everything!”

“Alright, my friend, but first tell me who are you?” I asked.

“I am your nafs,” it replied.

And so, we began talking. It asked me everything, no holding back.

What followed was a thrilling adventure, a flood of answered questions, and plenty of unforgettable memories.

If you ask me, it was a truly fantastic conversation!

And we started from the very beginning...

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

► By exploring the concept of nafs in a fun and engaging way, the book helps children recognize their inner desires and impulses while learning to manage them.

THE CHILD WHO HATED HOMEWORK

A brand-new adventure from Hatice Kübra Tongar, whose books have delighted millions of children!

Some children dislike homework. But have you ever wondered why?

Because that they all learn differently.

One is energetic, one stutters, one is autistic, one struggles with attention, and one lives in a world of imagination. Five kids!

Add a crazy teacher.

A time machine built from an old tractor.

And a brave team determined to eliminate the greatest enemy of all: homework!

Ready for the adventure?

Mission: Destroy Homework!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It reveals the emotions and needs hidden behind the label of “the child who dislikes homework.”
- It helps readers understand that behaviors often mistaken for laziness may stem from a desire to be understood.
- It celebrates children’s natural drive to move, experiment, and explore.
- It encourages appreciation of diverse talents, strengths, and learning styles.
- It offers a fresh perspective on teacher–student relationships.
- It delivers meaningful insights without becoming didactic, blending humor with reflection.
- It provides an engaging adventure for children while inviting adults to reconsider their own assumptions.

THE FLYING INVENTORS

This year the traditional annual trivia competition was going to be held at Günebakan School. Melisa and her friends were chosen to represent their school in the competition, and the theme was the history of aviation!

What did the first flying vehicles look like? Who was the Turkish inventor who built his own airplane and named it after himself? What was the name of the scholar who flew from the Galata Tower all the way to Üsküdar using custom-made wings? When was the very first airplane factory established in Turkey?

Would the children be able to answer these tough questions correctly? Who was going to win the competition?

While introducing children to one of the most groundbreaking inventions in human history, The Flying Inventors invites them into a thrilling adventure that reflects the value of learning, collaboration, and friendship.

Take your seat on this plane fuelled by dreams and leave your own tracks on the cloudy pathways of aviation history!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It provides crucial historical insights into aviation, introducing children to the pioneer inventors who contributed to the discovery of flight from past to present.
- It explains the stages of an invention in rich detail, encouraging children to think and create like real inventors.
- The excitement of children preparing for a competition, demonstrating the value of effort and structured planning on the path to success.
- It enhances children's skills in rapid teamwork, critical analysis, and problem-solving through the real-time evaluations made by the characters during the quiz.
- It highlights essential social concepts such as friendship, sharing, team spirit, hosting, and hospitality, boosting children's social development.
- It beautifully reinforces that the road to true achievement is paved with disciplined work and meaningful effort.

Selim's Science Notebook – 1

HELLO, CAN YOU HEAR ME?

Everyone supports Selim's passion for science, his parents, his teacher, and especially his grandfather. His curiosity and love for discovery are truly cherished. Going one step further, his grandfather sends him on a time journey using a mysterious hourglass hidden in his library. With his grandfather's help, Selim travels to the exact moment the telephone was invented.

What happens next?

You wouldn't think I'd only tell you how Selim met Alexander Graham Bell, why Bell decided to invent the telephone, who made the first phone call, or whether cherry juice spilled onto the invention notes...

You are probably also wondering whether Selim made it back to his own time.

Then shake this book just like Selim shakes the hourglass and step into an unforgettable adventure.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It makes children love science through a fun and engaging story about the invention of the telephone.
- It conveys the idea that you can't be a good scientist without being a good person.
- It uses time travel to make historical knowledge accessible and enjoyable.
- It employs a warm, child-friendly tone instead of a didactic approach.
- It stimulates imagination and encourages curiosity and exploration.

A LIGHT BULP WENT ON IN MY HEAD

Selim is a child curious about science. He loves asking questions, researching, and learning. One evening, when the power goes out at the dinner table, a question sticks in his mind: “What did people do in the dark before the lightbulb?”

Pursuing his curiosity, Selim starts a journey in time with an hourglass. He suddenly finds himself in Thomas Edison's childhood, then his youth, and finally in his research center. Together with Edison, he learns how valuable science, patience, and hard work are.

So, how was the lightbulb really invented?

Why did Edison make so many attempts?

What other inventions does Edison have?

And what do you think Selim told his friends when he returned to his own time?

Come on, join Selim's Notebook; maybe a lightbulb will go on in your head too!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- ▶ It endears the mystery of science to children by telling the story of the lightbulb's invention with exciting scenes.
- ▶ It emphasizes that not giving up is the most important way to success by citing Edison's determination as an example.
- ▶ It creates an inspiring atmosphere that keeps children's desire to research alive by encouraging curiosity.
- ▶ It impressively shows how science changes life by relating historical inventions to today's needs.
- ▶ It explains scientific experiences with simple examples and gives children the courage to make their own small discoveries.

THE DEPARTMENT OF EXAGGERATED AFFAIRS

In this heartwarming story, you'll meet Mimoza a very sensitive girl, who writes a letter to her grandfather to find solutions to the challenges she faces. What about you?

Do you have friends around you who can no longer see one another because they are glued to their screens?

Or people you know who, due to an intense focus on a single issue, fail to fulfill their other important responsibilities?

And perhaps the most heartbreaking of all those you love the most, who end up hurting you with decisions they believe are made for your own good...

Feeling lonely among people who are disconnected, indifferent, and unable to understand one another, Mimoza writes a heartfelt letter to her grandfather.

But how does her grandfather manage to transform everyone at school, in the park, at home, and in the neighborhood?

Curious?

Then join this delightful grandparent–grandchild adventure!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It helps children recognize exaggerated behaviors in everyday life and develop critical thinking.
- It promotes the idea of “enough” in a world obsessed with “more” and “best.”
- It enhances social communication skills using a language that highlights the power of kindness.
- It encourages balanced behavior through relatable life events.
- It teaches the value of simplicity in an overly exaggerated world.

ALI'S MYSTERIOUS CLEATS

The "Golden Feet" team is getting ready for the match. However, before every match, there is always something that needs to be solved: Shots forcing the windows, players who don't like stretching, and Kerem, who sulked at football because he was mocked due to his family's pickle shop...

Ali, Deniz, and their friends catch Kerem watching them from the gym window during training. The children chase a small secret to bring him back to the field.

The "mysterious cleats" are right in the middle of this story, reminding us of courage and struggle.

This is a sincere and fun story where the fallen are lifted, even those who miss a goal are applauded, and friendship goes beyond football. The ball turns, the match ends. Faith and friendship always last.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It offers a fun and fluent narrative that develops team spirit and a sense of responsibility in children.
- Provides healthy behavioral models that produce solutions to problems such as peer pressure and bullying.
- Reminds children of the power within them by making them feel that courage sometimes starts with a small step.
- Implies that falling, losing, and trying again in the game are natural parts of development.
- Creates a real atmosphere that allows children to see themselves in the story with familiar scenes from daily life.

THE HOUSE SEARCHING FOR ITS FAMILY

Mr. Ali built a beautiful house and named it Eagle's Nest.

He and his wife filled it with happy memories until their son asked them to move in with him. When they left for the city, Eagle's Nest was left behind. Laughter no longer echoed through its walls, and warm food smells no longer filled its kitchen. It felt abandoned and useless.

One day, it saw a vehicle with a roof moving along the road a caravan designed like a home. Inspired, Eagle's Nest stood up and set out to find its family.

Whom did it meet along the way?

How did it save a burning house?

Why did it sacrifice itself for a broken minaret?

And how did it become a beloved home for an entire village?

A heartwarming story that reminds us that even houses have a soul...

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It shows that a home is more than walls, it is built with love.
- It creates awareness of the relationship between people and objects through a speaking house.
- It explores values such as solidarity, loyalty, gratitude, and friendship through an emotional narrative.
- It encourages empathy, respect for belongings, and the healing power of love.
- It describes the processes of acceptance, abandonment and reacceptance in emotional language.

THE WISE COBBLER'S EXTRAORDINARY SHOP

Imagine a small town where winding roads lead to a central square. In the middle stands a shop unlike any other. This is no ordinary shoe store. It belongs to a wise man who can tell people's stories through their shoes.

Can a worn-out shoe reveal that its owner is always in a hurry? Can a flattened heel whisper, "Slow down for a moment?"

This is exactly what the Wise Cobbler does.

While repairing shoes, he also mends hearts, habits, and ways of seeing the world.

In this heartwarming story, readers will discover how an entire town changes through small moments of awareness and why staying true to yourself is the most important journey of all.

The Wise Cobbler is waiting for you in his extraordinary shop.

If you're ready, the Wise Cobbler is waiting for you at his extraordinary shop!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It offers valuable life lessons through a rich cast of characters.
- It teaches children not to judge by appearances and encourages deeper understanding of others.
- It balances humor and wisdom, creating a memorable reading experience that is both entertaining and thought-provoking.
- It encourages children to see situations from multiple perspectives.
- It highlights the importance of slowing down, reflecting, and becoming more aware in a fast-paced world.

THE OLD, WISE WORLD – 1

The Origin of the Universe

Hello! I'm Earth.

You know the big, blue, slightly old but still spinning planet...

I've been turning for 4.5 billion years.

Born from fire, traveling among stars, hosting dinosaurs, be-friending humans...

Sometimes I laughed, sometimes I grew tired.

I have so much to tell you.

Like:

How are stars born?

Where do planets come from?

Why is the universe so vast and so quiet?

Curious?

In this book, we set off on the most exciting journey through the universe.

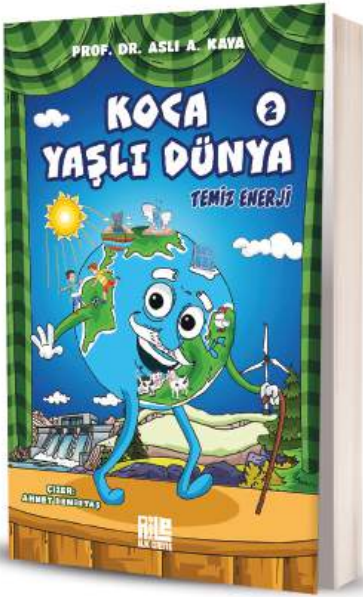

You'll hear the story of science, space, stars, planets -and me, Earth- directly from me.

Ready? Hold tight... I'll keep spinning while I talk!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It explains the formation of the universe, stars, planets, and Earth in clear, simple language.
- It instills children a sense of responsibility toward our planet.
- It introduces children to the history of astronomy and great thinkers of the past.
- It transforms science topics into an engaging story format.
- It encourages children curiosity, observation, and scientific thinking.

The Clean Energy

Hello! I am Clean Energy, the invisible hero hidden in the sun, the wind, the power of water and the heat beneath the earth. Unlike fossil fuels, I am part of everyday life without harming the environment. And I have so much to tell you!

Why is clean energy so important?

How do the sun, water, and wind generate power?

How can the heat beneath the earth be transformed into energy?

How do greenhouse gases affect our planet?

You are curious, aren't you?

Join me on a fascinating journey from sunlight to wind, from the force of water to the depths of the earth. Along the way, you will discover what clean energy is, how it works, and how we can use it more efficiently all told from my own perspective.

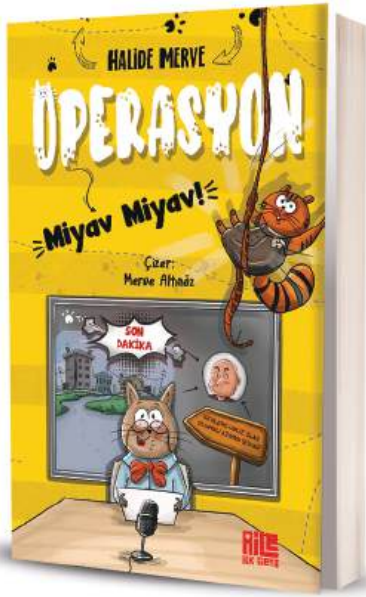

Are you ready, let's begin?

Because the future will be shaped by the way you use energy today.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It introduces renewable energy sources and encourages environmentally conscious choices.
- It explains how solar, wind, geothermal, and hydropower energy are generated through engaging, concrete examples.
- It develops awareness of environmental responsibility and the importance of protecting nature.
- It teaches the effects of greenhouse gases and encourages informed thinking about climate change.
- It strengthens scientific thinking, analytical skills, and understanding of cause-and-effect relationships.

OPERATION MEOW MEOW – 2

Cats on the Run

Imagine a cat. Cute, a little mischievous, and incredibly friendly... He is separated from his mother and siblings. After a while he is adopted by Zeynep and her family, becoming a beloved house cat named Muffin. While living a blissful life, he goes on a picnic with his family one day, gets lost, and suddenly finds himself forced to survive as a stray.

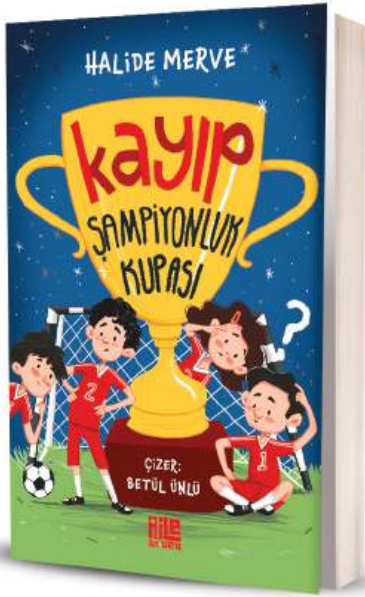

From Duman's park residence to a cat shelter, and from the wild streets to a feline hospital, countless adventures await him. On one side is Duman, the friendly and kind-hearted cat; on another is Tarık, a natural-born leader who drives everyone away with his terrible smell; and then there is Wise Old Şevket, whose brilliance and intellect guide all the cats around... Every character opens a unique window into this delightful world.

As Muffin battles the hardships of the streets, he embarks on a quest to discover true friendship, trust, and what it really means to belong. At times he finds himself in terrifying situations, and at others, right in the middle of hilariously absurd moments. The rowdy felines of Mud Neighbourhood, mysterious cat shelters, unforgettable characters, and the legendary tales of Wise Old Şevket sweep him into wild new adventures. Will Muffin ever find Zeynep again? A thrilling, page-turning reading journey awaits you!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It guides children on building healthy communication by presenting snapshots of social relationships through diverse cat characters.
- It teaches children how to act under difficult circumstances and guides them in problem-solving when facing adversity.
- It strikes a perfect balance between entertainment and education, offering a unique reading experience with a chain of witty and thought-provoking events.
- It instills the virtue of respecting differences, reminding young readers that animals just like humans can have both positive and negative traits.
- It delivers an entertaining journey in values education, deeply teaching concepts such as empathy, love, respect, patience, and resilience.
- It opens a unique window into the world of felines, emphasizing the importance of protecting animals, loving every living creature, and showing compassion.

THE LOST CHAMPIONSHIP TROPHY

An ordinary school day for Defne and her friends suddenly turns into an unexpected adventure. The championship trophy goes missing!

Endless questions from the neighborhood, the rush at the municipality, interesting news spilling over to newspapers and televisions... All this chaos is colored by Defne's curious and funny comments.

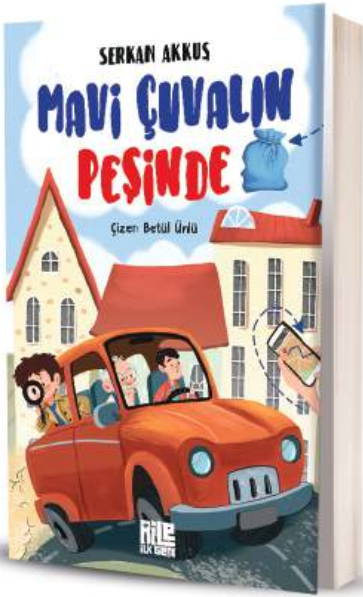

Defne's courage on the field, Hasan's unique interest in mathematics, the colorful characters of the neighborhood, and events woven with the oddities behind the lost trophy turn into an adventure that makes you both laugh and think.

"The Lost Championship Trophy," which tells of friendship, solidarity, perseverance, and the unifying power of sports with a humorous language, invites you to an adventure full of laughter and joy.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It emphasizes the importance of being a team and impressively shows how solidarity facilitates every problem.
- It develops children's ability to evaluate events from multiple perspectives through the oddities in pursuit of the lost cup.
- It introduces the neighborhood atmosphere with colorful characters and makes children naturally feel the role of social relationships.
- It shows the importance of not giving up in difficult situations and conveys the equivalent of perseverance in the child's world with striking language.
- It enables the reader to place themselves in the story with fun characters and develops empathy skills.

CHASING THE BLUE SACK

One Sunday morning, an ordinary blue sack and a lost phone dragged Ali into an unforgettable adventure.

Ali, who loved listening to his grandfather's advice and spending time with him, suddenly found himself in a journey full of excitement. What was lost that day was not just a phone! Sometimes a sack hides not only items but also awareness, responsibility, and the lessons life whispers.

"Chasing the Blue Sack" invites you to Ali's adventure. You will play detective while following the clues, and perhaps discover the greatest treasure while turning the pages. If you are ready, Ali is waiting for you to solve the mystery of the blue sack!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It implies that what is found while looking for a lost item is actually one's self.
- It shows that small mistakes made unnoticed in daily life can turn into important lessons.
- It teaches children to apologize, make amends, and take responsibility in a natural way.
- It makes the reader feel the love between grandfather and grandson through a family bond woven with wisdom and compassion.
- It reminds us that objects can carry emotions and every object has a story.

The Talking Library – 1

THE MAN WHO PLANTED KINDNESS

Imagine a library where books whisper to one another, where words come alive as they are written, and where a writer uncovers stories hidden deep beneath the surface.

Now imagine a man who changes the fate of an entire region with nothing more than a handful of seeds.

Because sometimes a handful of seeds can leave behind thousands of trees and millions of hopes.

In this enchanting story by İlknur Koç Aytaç, readers will follow the extraordinary connection between a man devoted to kindness, a handful of seeds, a continent, a library, and a writer. Along the way, they will witness the quiet power of goodness taking root and growing.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It invites readers into a magical world where books speak, encouraging them to listen to their own inner voice.
- It demonstrates how seemingly small actions can create remarkable outcomes.
- It highlights the quiet, enduring power of kindness through the symbolism of seeds, saplings, and growth.
- It shows how even the smallest gesture can change the direction of a life.
- It encourages reflection on how one individual can transform a place, a path, or another person's future.
- It inspires readers to ask themselves the question "What would I do?"

Discovery Team – 1 OPERATION LEOPARD

One morning in the Munzur Valley, an unusual metallic sound breaks the silence of nature.

A cage. An escape. And the legendary Anatolian leopard is in danger.

Can Yiğit, Dilara, and Çınar ever have an ordinary day? Of course not! They are members of a secret group dedicated to protecting nature. "The Discovery Team"

Joined by Puhobot, an owl-shaped robot, the witty tech genius Pikobot, advanced drones, detailed maps, and plenty of courage, the team launches into action.

But standing in their way is Bay Zarek, a dangerous animal collector with no respect for the natural world.

Rocky caves, hidden Urartian passages, ancient bridges, clever strategies, and breathtaking adventures await.

Can the Discovery Team save the Anatolian leopard before it is too late?

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It captures readers from the very first pages through a subtle disruption in nature rather than a conventional dramatic event.
- It explores the connection between witnessing a problem and taking responsibility for it.
- It presents heroism as quiet responsibility and teamwork rather than grand gestures.
- It deepens the relationship between nature, history, and humanity through layered storytelling.
- It encourages environmental awareness by showing what could be lost if nature is not protected.

CHASING THE BLUE SACK

Fahri was a curious child who could see not only with his eyes but also with his heart, listening to nature's composition.

One rainy morning, his path crossed with a bitten half-apple glowing in the mud. But this was no ordinary apple. It was a coded robotic apple that could speak and carried both secrets from the past and hopes for the future.

There were other coded apples in the village of Işıkoru. When people encountered them, lives were turned upside down; some were seized by fear, others by anger... Over time, a great disagreement settled over the village like a dark cloud.

Then, Fahri found himself in a mission he never expected: "To be a bridge between nature, technology, and people." But could Fahri succeed in this? Are you ready to discover the difference between looking and seeing with Fahri in this exciting adventure?

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It teaches children to love nature, be curious about science, and act with a balanced approach.
- It reminds us that when reason and emotion work together, they beautify the world.
- It emphasizes that technology is only beneficial when used responsibly.
- It explains that empathizing and being sensitive to the environment are the most valuable virtues.
- It teaches children to think, research, and not be afraid of trying.

THE PEN THAT RAN AWAY FROM WRITING

The inside of a pencil case is usually a quiet place. But what happens if the pens start talking? What if, one day, they all decide to stop writing?

The red pencil was sick and tired of being chewed on and broken. The fountain pen had been completely forgotten. The colored pencils sat quietly at the very bottom of the box. Children just didn't love them or use them with care anymore.

Exhausted from being tossed on the floor, gnawed on, and left forgotten in the shadow of digital screens, the pens called a secret council and made a historic decision: "They would write no more!"

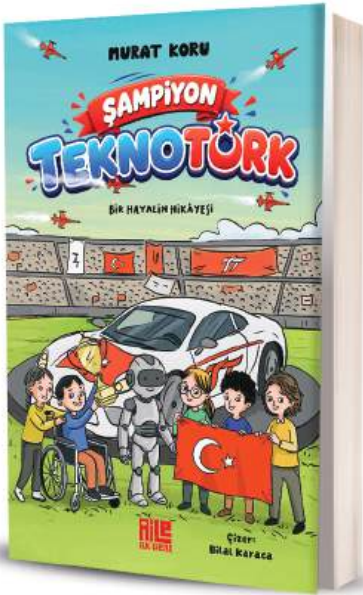

The next morning, not a single pen in the world did its job. Notebooks remained blank, and not a single letter could be written on the classroom blackboard. Only in their absence did children truly understand for the first time how precious writing, imagination, and the companionship of a pen really were.

The Pen That Ran Away From Writing is the kind of story that makes readers truly experience the meaning of the proverb, "Spoken words fly away, written words remain." It is an unforgettable adventure that reminds us of the power of writing, the beauty of imagination, and the importance of valuing our belongings.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It opens a door into the colorful world of pens and their feelings, helping children realize that everyday objects can have a spirit of their own.
- It teaches children the importance of appreciating their belongings, emphasizing that the value of certain things is best understood in their absence.
- It offers an unforgettable reading experience through whimsical illustrations and a beautifully balanced plot that blends fun, adventure, learning, reflection, and emotion.
- It fosters creative thinking skills in children, guiding them to explore different perspectives through empathy.
- It seamlessly integrates values education through an engaging plot, cultivating deep feelings of respect, love, effort, attentiveness, and appreciation.
- It teaches the meaning of the phrase "Spoken words fly away, written words remain," showing that writing is a journey of meaning toward oneself and the world.

CHAMPION TEKNOTÜRK

Story of a Dream

A tiny idea, fueled by faith and hard work, can transform into a massive change. Umut, a boy in a wheelchair, is the ultimate proof of this with his boundary-breaking determination.

Alongside his friends Zeynep, Arda, Elif, and Mert, Umut sets up an "imagination workshop." Preparing for the Science Fair and Technology Festival, these children combine their distinct talents to showcase the invaluable worth of team spirit, hard work, and perseverance.

How will the children's preparation phase go? Will their innovative projects manage to impress the jury? Will Umut and his robotic friend Robodost have to part ways? A Champion TeknoTürk adventure filled with success, friendship, and proof that everything begins with a dream is waiting for you!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It encourages children to embrace teamwork through diverse characters who contribute unique ideas based on their individual talents.
- It reminds children of the vital importance of team spirit and maps out how to take step-by-step actions toward a shared goal.
- It provides practical insight into bringing a dream to life, building strong awareness around dedication and disciplined work.
- It expands young minds regarding project development and execution, teaching children to analyse situations from multiple perspectives rather than a single angle.
- It inspires children to use technology responsibly and to design inventions that solve modern global challenges.
- It unlocks the secrets of the scientific world, guiding young readers on how to adapt fluidly to an evolving global landscape.

THE “LOVE ALLAH, SEE THE MIRACLE” CLASS

“Faith in Allah”

Welcome to Joyful Faces Middle School! Would you like to share the joy of the school's most extraordinary class, 6-C? Then meet Teacher Selim right away.

Teacher Selim is unlike other teachers. Laughing is free in his class. He gives high grades to those who ask good questions. And he loves to make people think.

The students are very curious. Questions like “How do we know Allah?”, “How can we believe without seeing?”, “How does a seed turn into a colorful flower?” fly in the air.

Sometimes enthusiastic laughter rises from the classroom windows, and sometimes there is a deep silence inside. But every lesson turns into a different adventure in the name of “getting to know Allah closer”!

Would you like to join this adventure? Then walk through the classroom door immediately! Because in this book, Teacher Selim opens his heart not only to his own students but to every child who wants to learn.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It helps children grasp faith in Allah through love, fun, curiosity, and reasoning.
- It associates religious knowledge with events in daily life, making faith a part of life, not just a lesson.
- Fun and natural dialogues in the classroom ensure that children do not hesitate to ask questions and learn by thinking.
- It provides a correct, faith-based perspective on the conceptual confusion children face in the modern age.
- It offers both a fun school story and makes the reader feel that knowing Allah is a journey full of love.

IF DREAMS CAME TRUE

This is a world where all children's dreams come true...

Lola's only dream is to build a home in her garden for the dog she loves... Lucas wants to get out of his wheelchair and participate in the Olympic trials. Eslem misses her country, her life, and her cat, which she left behind due to the war. Ushi is impatiently waiting for the days when his father will regain his health. And Palestinian children wish for the war to end.

In this book, the sky, stars, planets, the Moon, and the earth shine with childish joy. Because dreaming children join hands to change the world and sing songs of happiness.

So come on, choose a star for yourself. Say the most sincere wish in your heart with your sweetest tone of voice... And wait to see what happens. Because at the end of this book, all dreams will come true!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It ensures that children look to the future with confidence, never lose hope, and keep their beliefs constantly fresh.
- It explains with a fantastic fiction that dreaming, happiness, and true peace are about listening to the voice of one's heart.
- It teaches much information about the sky, stars, astronomy, and nature in a mysterious and fun style.
- It introduces stars with different characteristics and world cultures, providing an exciting adventure into the depths of the universe.
- It shows that difficulties can be overcome with imagination by processing challenging situations such as war, disease, separation, and disability with child sensitivity.

A RAMADAN IN TIMES PAST

This time, the time machine journeys not into the future, but toward the heartwarming Ramadans of the past...

Eight-year-old Ahmet sets out with his father on what becomes far more than a simple trip a passage into a memory-filled, spiritually rich past. Surrounded by airbuses, time capsules, and teleportation chambers, the adventure fuels his curiosity at every step.

After losing a chess match, Ahmet shifts course -not to the future, but toward his father's childhood dreams- and suddenly finds himself beneath the illuminated mahya lights of Sultanahmet. Iftar tables, queues for traditional pide, the firing of the iftar cannon, the custom of dış kirası, post-tarawih festivities, and a peaceful night in Hagia Sophia... As father and son trace the meaning of the question "Where are the old Ramadans?", they experience an unforgettable day in the warm atmosphere of the past.

In A Ramadan in Times Past, Esmahanım Yalçın invites young readers to a unique time-travel adventure where technology and tradition, excitement and serenity, curiosity and spirituality come together.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It is a fantastical story portraying the warmth of past Ramadans through the eyes of a child curious about the future.
- Vivid scenes set in and around Sultanahmet reflect Ramadan life in the Ottoman world.
- It introduces children to Ramadan traditions through memorable moments such as iftar time, pide queues, and the iftar cannon.
- It explores the question "Where are the old Ramadans?" through a child's observations.
- It conveys the contemplative and serene spirit of Ramadan through scenes of night worship in Hagia Sophia.

LOVING MY ANCESTORS – 1

Charity

Imagine walking through the streets of the Ottoman Empire... Suddenly, a stone whispers to you: "Do your good deeds in secret!" Then, the door of a soup kitchen opens and says, "If you are hungry, come to my table!" A hospital smiles and calls out, "Here, there is healing for both your body and your heart!"

But beware! In those same years, things work very differently in Europe. Endless queues at church doors, helpless people in dirty hospital beds...

In this book, you will journey into the mercy-filled world of the Ottomans, learn how kindness was performed silently, and grow to love your ancestors even more. Moreover, the person guiding you through this adventure is Nilhan Osmanoğlu, the granddaughter of Sultan Abdulhamid III!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It revives the Spirit: Reanimates the Ottoman spirit through the voices of charity stones, soup kitchens, and hospitals.
- It instills feelings of conscience, mercy, and justice in hearts while teaching history.
- It compares the Ottoman understanding of charity with that of Medieval European states.
- It builds a valuable sense of "us" in children and raises a generation proud of their heritage.
- It carries the values of an ancient heritage that combines goodness with worship and sharing with humanity into the present day.

LOVING MY ANCESTORS – 2

Science and Technology

Think of a book... When you open its cover, it takes you centuries back!

On the first page, a Madrasah (school) appears before you and calls out with a smile: “Welcome! Here your mind shines, and your curiosity grows.” Then an Observatory calls you up. “Look at the sky! You too can read the heavens,” it says. A little further on, a Library opens its door. “Come in! Thousands of books, into which scholars poured their eye-straining labor, are waiting for you on my shelves,” it whispers.

With the stories of these three structures, you will discover how science grew with love and labor in the Ottoman Empire. You will love your ancestors even more when you read what students experienced in Europe during the same period!

If you are ready, Nilhan Osmanoğlu, the granddaughter of Sultan Abdulhamid II, calls you to this journey full of discovery!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It explains with strong examples how a civilization rose by processing the value the ancestors gave to science.
- It carries the historical atmosphere to today's children in a fun way by making the Ottoman structures speak.
- It compares two different worlds strikingly by showing the challenging educational conditions in Medieval Europe.
- It creates a strong sense of belonging and confidence in children by processing our civilization's love for science.
- It contributes to raising a conscious and curious generation that looks to the future with hope.

LOVING MY ANCESTORS – 3

Etiquette of Cleanliness

Imagine living in the Ottoman era...

A mirror appears before you and says in a sweet voice, “Cleanliness makes both your face and your heart shine!”

You step inside a house, the rug moves slightly. “The charm of the house lies in its cleanliness and order!” it whispers. When you go out to the street, the fountain calls out: “If I flow, everywhere becomes beautiful and smells sweet!”

But in the same years, the groans of people afraid to use water, smelly houses, and disease-filled streets are heard in Europe!

In this book, you will see our ancestors’ sensitivity to cleanliness shining far beyond their age, how they made their houses sparkling clean, and how they protected their cities with love.

If you are ready, Nilhan Osmanoğlu is waiting to introduce you to a civilization kneaded with cleanliness!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It effectively explains that the Ottoman sensitivity to cleanliness was a strong value that built a civilization.
- It shows that cleanliness in the Ottoman Empire was a basic culture combined with worship, morality, and daily life.
- It makes the difference in civilization felt by explaining the lack of importance given to cleanliness in Medieval Europe with striking examples.
- It makes children comprehend that cleanliness is a universal value that beautifies people, the environment, and society.
- It contributes to raising a conscious and tidy generation proud of their ancestors.

LOVING MY ANCESTORS – 4

Festivities and Ceremonies

Imagine walking through an Ottoman city...

The sound of the Ottoman military band (mehter) drum echoes from afar, saying, "With my beat, everyone knew an important day was beginning!"

A little further ahead, a colorful Ottoman candy (macun) calls out, "Come over here! I'll tell you all about how the Ottoman people used to have fun!"

Right at that moment, a glowing, illuminated string of lights (mahya) appears between two minarets, declaring, "And I brighten up the Ramadan nights with love!"

But beware! During those same years in Europe, knights are holding dangerous tournaments, kings are putting on grand displays of power, and crowds gather for ceremonies tinged with fear.

In this book, you will discover how the Ottomans experienced joy, entertainment, and celebration within a culture of modesty, grace, and propriety—exploring a vibrant world stretching from imperial state ceremonies to public festivals.

If you are ready, Nilhan Osmanoğlu, the granddaughter of Sultan Abdülhamid II, invites you on this journey full of joy and grandeur!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It explores the festive and ceremonial world of the Ottoman Empire through an entertaining narrative featuring anthropomorphic characters like the Mehter drum, Ottoman candy, and Mahya light.
- It relates state traditions, from enthronement ceremonies (cülus) to sword-girding processions, in a simple and accessible language.
- It visualizes social life, from popular recreation areas to traditional theatrical performances, with engaging examples.
- It introduces children to the religious life and spiritual atmosphere of Ottoman society under the glow of Ramadan minaret lights.
- It emphasizes that the Ottoman concept of celebration was built upon order, sharing, and a profound sense of unity.
- It contextualizes differing cultural perspectives by contrasting Ottoman entertainment culture with European practices of the era.

LET'S ALL HAVE A GREAT TIME IN THE MOSQUE

Everything in this mosque talks. But only with children!

The minarets, dome, chandelier, mihrab, minbar, muezzin's lodge, ablution fountain, fountains, doors, carpets...

But what could possibly happen inside a mosque?

Can laughter echo from minarets dreaming of riding bicycles?

Can the ablution fountain and courtyard fountains have cheerful conversations with children?

Can the dome, troubled by birds, ask for help?

Can the chandelier flash its lights on and off to show excitement?

Can the minbar play a rhyming game while the mihrab invites a child to lead the prayer?

In this book, every corner of the mosque comes to life, taking readers on a fun-filled and laughter-packed adventure!

A heartwarming story about the mosque and prayer!

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

► With its fun storyline, where objects in the mosque come to life and talk, the book charmingly introduces children to spiritual values, the meaning of prayer, and the peace of the mosque.

► It increases children's enthusiasm for visiting mosques and praying, helping them perceive the mosque as a safe, warm, and friendly space.

► Questions children often wonder about such as "What is the role of minarets?", "Why do we face the Kaaba during prayer?", and "What does standing in rows during prayer mean?" are naturally answered within the story.

► By presenting the mosque in a way that resonates with children's world, the book helps them see it as their space.

OH NO, THE POWER IS OUT!

"Dear, your eyes will be ruined soon, take a break!"

"Find something else to occupy yourself with!"

"Stay away from the screen!"

While these words echoed in children's ears, suddenly, the municipality's announcement was heard: "Electricity will be cut for a week!"

Oh no! What will the kids do without electricity for an entire week?

How will they have fun and play without computers, televisions, and phones?

You are invited to an exciting, fun-filled week full of discoveries with the "Game Makers Team!"

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It makes children question the place of technology in their lives and shows them that it is possible to spend happy and fun times without tablets, phones and the Internet.
- It reminds us that the real world is more colourful, fun and richer than the virtual world.
- It emphasises the importance of time spent with family members and friends and strengthens social bonds.
- It encourages children to make good memories that they will remember in the future through the games and activities they do with their friends.

THE VERY STRANGE SOFA

“Is a sofa really just an armchair?”

Or can it turn -through a child's imagination- into a dragon, a restaurant, a riddle shop, or even a spaceship?

A sofa that has finished its duty at home can sometimes be more than just a piece of furniture; it can carry a memory, a friendship, and a dream.

Would you like to join the adventure that begins with “The Very Strange Sofa?”

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It shows the power of imagination by transforming an ordinary sofa into an extraordinary world.
- It playfully illustrates how friendship, cooperation, and solidarity grow through everyday play.
- It emphasizes that dreams first take root in the mind before becoming reality.
- It encourages children to develop new perspectives in their daily lives.
- It helps children gain values such as empathy, helpfulness, and shared responsibility.

WHO HOLDS THE FLAG NOW?

Was the flag really just a piece of cloth?

Or did it carry a nation's honor, its past, and its future every time it waved in the wind?

A simple homework assignment given to fourth-grader Mehmet takes him on a journey beyond his imagination.

In a dream, he meets the heroes of the past: Sütçü İmam, Nene Hatun, Şahin Bey, Şerife Bacı, and many more...

Each of them leads him to the answer of a single question:

"Who holds the flag?"

This book teaches children not only history, but also love for the homeland, courage, and the importance of protecting what has been entrusted to us.

And in the end, Mehmet finds the answer that echoes in all our hearts:

"I hold the flag. You do. We all do."

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It teaches children the flag as a symbol of freedom and independence.
- It brings national heroes to life for children.
- It vividly brings to life the stories of heroes—from Sütçü İmam to Şerife Bacı, from Şahin Bey to Nene Hatun, from Yörük Ali Efe to Ömer Halisdemir.
- It reminds that protecting the homeland is not only a duty of the past, but an ongoing responsibility today.
- It teaches children the importance of safeguarding what is entrusted to them and growing up with a strong sense of responsibility.

THE PLANET OF ALLAH'S BEAUTIFUL NAMES

Look up into space, the moon, the sun, saturn, and mars...

Now, would you like to look at nature too? At the trees, rivers, seas, and plains...

Big or small, thin or plump, hidden or obvious... There is one signature you can see on everything!

If you don't believe me, run to the mirror and take a look! You'll see a unique creation of Allah!

Hatice Kübra Tongar opens an The Beautiful Names of Allah (Esmâ-i Hüsnâ) window to the universe. All children who look through this window wear glasses of contemplation.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It makes children feel the beauty of learning the names of Allah with love and realising what these names mean in daily life.
- It concretises abstract concepts and provides permanent learning by associating them with children's school, family and friend experiences.
- The author's warm and conversational narration aims to introduce Allah in a language that children can easily grasp.
- Supported by colourful and warm-toned illustrations, the book attracts children's attention and stimulates their imagination.

THE MOST SECRET WORD IN THE WORLD

Kelamettin the Word Beetle was very curious and excited to-day. He set off and went to the Wise Bird. When he got there he asked him: "What is the most secret word in the world?"

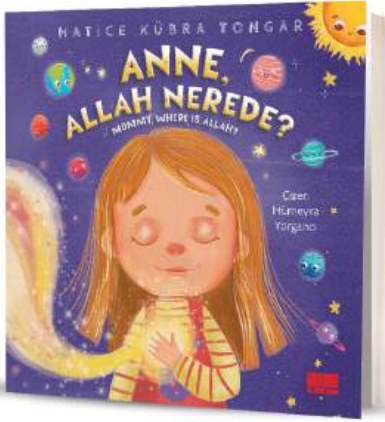

In this book, Hatice Kübra Tongar embraces the children with her words and teaches them, like a fine embroidery, the concept of the hijab, how important it is in the world of our girls, but also in the world of our boys.

The hijab has always been a secret for our children but now it is a light that enlightens their hearts.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It helps our children to gain the consciousness of hijab.
- It explains that the concept of hijab does not only belong to girls.
- It teaches what hijab is by using the child's sense of curiosity.

WONDERFUL WORDS

(5 Book Set)

Meet an impatient Rabbit and a patient Tortoise two curious friends full of fun and wonder!

Sometimes they chase a kite into the sky, sometimes they tumble through a pile of cotton, sometimes the bleating of a little lamb sends them off on an unexpected journey, and sometimes they find themselves in the middle of a lively festival...

And in every adventure, they discover a wonderful word: Bismillah, InshaAllah, MashaAllah, SubhanAllah, and Alhamdu-lillah.

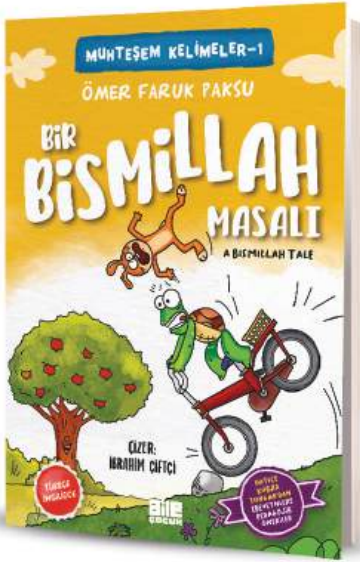

In this delightful series, Ömer Faruk Paksu invites children aged 4 to 7 on joyful journeys filled with laughter, emotion, and meaningful words rooted in faith.

Through these stories, little readers begin to bring their language in harmony with their belief one beautiful word at a time.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It encourages children to love and use meaningful faith-based words.
- It makes abstract religious concepts concrete through characters and stories.
- It teaches gratitude, prayer, wonder, and mindful beginnings.
- It presents faith-based values in an engaging and age-appropriate way.
- It is a valuable reference for early childhood religious education.

A BISMILLAH TALE

It was an ordinary morning, until a Tortoise was woken up by a Rabbit's impatient voice!

What started as a simple bike ride turned into falling from the sky, becoming a goal in a soccer game, and landing in all sorts of surprises. Clearly, something was missing: "Bismillah!"

In this fun-filled story, children discover the meaning and beauty of starting everything. Every good bite, every brave step, every joyful moment with Bismillah.

Written by Ömer Faruk Paksu for children aged 4 to 7, this adventure gently teaches the habit of beginning with the name of Allah through laughter, action, and heartfelt storytelling.

WHY SHOULD WE READ THIS BOOK?

- It introduces Bismillah through a playful fairy-tale narrative
- It instills the habit of starting actions with intention.
- It encourages the use of religious expressions in daily life.
- It inspires reading, learning, and reflection through joyful storytelling.
- It offers the most enjoyable way to make religious concepts tangible for children in the preschool years.
